Dry Candidate Enters Jersey Campaign After Morrow's "Wet" Debut

Morrow's Wet Stand Creates Political Stir

Washington Buzzes With Sensational Attack On 18th Amendment

STEPS INTO FRONT RANKS OF "WETS"

Morrow Lines Up With Dupont, Curran, Raskob And Others

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)
NEWARK, N. J., May 16.—Congressman Franklin W. Fort, of East Orange, announced here today that he will be a candidate, on a dry platform, for the Republican nomination for United States senator in opposition to Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow, of Englewood, and Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, of Raritan. Both Morrow and Frelinghuysen are wets.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—The ringing wet declaration of Dwight W. Morrow in opening his campaign for the Republican nomination for senator in New Jersey was the political sensation of the Capitol today.

While it was well known that Morrow would adopt a liberal stand in his campaign, even the wets were hardly prepared for such a strong attack upon the Eighteenth Amendment.

In declaring for repeal of the 18th Amendment, with federal activities limited to preventing shipment of liquor into states that want to remain dry, Morrow takes the same stand as P. S. Dupont, Henry H. Curran, John J. Raskob and other leaders of the association against the prohibition amendment.

Into Front Ranks.

Morrow thus steps into the front ranks of the wet leaders, and if elected to the senate it is expected that leadership of the "wet bloc" will gravitate to him.

"Morrow for president" became the slogan of many enthusiastic wets who read his Newark speech a victory in November, a good record in the senate, combined with his services as ambassador to Mexico and standing in the business world, will make him ideal timber for a Republican.

SENATE-HOUSE NEAR DEAD-LOCK ON TARIFF BILL

Growing Controversy Is Heightened When House Conferees Balk At Report

Fear Is Manifested That Tariff Bill May Die In Conference

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, May 16.—The growing controversy between house and senate over the tariff bill has heightened today when house conferees refused to sign a partial report which would have permitted a show down in the senate on repeal of President Hoover's flexible powers to raise or lower tariff rates.

The house conferees balked at signing the report, they said, because it would necessitate another vote in the house on repeal of the flexible provision and the debenture plan of farm relief. The house has twice refused to accept these senate amendments to the bill and as a result the conference was thoroughly deadlocked.

The action of the house conferees left the senate conferees high and dry.

Administration leaders are studying to determine whether there is any other way to get a vote in the senate on the disputed items. Unless some such procedure exists the house conferees either must yield or the tariff bill will die in conference.

Army Man Loses Life In Pacific As Plane Falls

Four Planes Lost In Rescue Efforts In Sea Off Island Of Maui, Hawaii

THREE OF CREW JUMP WITH CHUTES

(International News Service)
HONOLULU, T. H., May 16.—As the aftermath of the mishap to the army Keystone bomber plane, which plunged into the sea off the island of Maui, and subsequent rescue efforts of other army and navy planes, one man was dead today and four planes were lost.

Staff Sergeant Joseph Becker of Brooklyn, N. Y., lost his life when the bomber fell into the sea.

The planes lost, in addition to the bomber, were two army single seaters and a navy twin motor Douglas patrol. The navy plane sank as it was being towed to Pearl Harbor.

The Keystone bomber, under command of Lieut. T. L. Boyd, was making a training flight over the sea when an aileron broke at a height of 8,000 feet. Three of its crew jumped in parachutes but Becker, the fourth, plunged into the ocean with the plane.

IN NEXT WAR WE WILL FIRE TREATIES AT 'EM SAYS WILL

(Special To The News)
BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., May 16.—The senate has started shooting at the London treaty. They asked a delegate: "Why did Japan get so much higher rating at London than they did at Washington?" "Well, Japan demanded it and wouldn't sign anything else."

"Well, why did we take smaller cruisers, when we wanted larger ones for our needs?" "We had to take them to get a treaty."

So it looks like our boys went after a treaty and Japan's gang went after ships. Well, they both got 'em. So now in case of trouble (which the diplomats say is unbelievable), why, for every ship they send out to attack us, we shoot 'em down with a treaty.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

Defeats Famous Glenna Collett In Tourney In England

GLENNA IS ROUTED BY OBSCURE GOLFER

By F. A. WRAY

FORMBY, Eng., May 16.—Many a slip twixt cup and lip—Blue-eyed, Flaxen Diana Fishwick, an obscure 19-year-old school girl, is the champion woman golfer of her motherland today, not the world-famous Glenna Collett, of America. Little Miss Fishwick won in the final round of the British championship this afternoon by the score of 4 up and 3 to play, while Glenna, no longer the assured, confident champion who wiped out the great Enid Goulay on successive days, was given the performance of a neophyte.

Thus, for the second year in succession, the cup was at the fair American's lips but, just as in the 1929 final round with Joyce Wethered, the potion she quaffed was no better than the dregs. The nectar of victory had been claimed by another.

Political Boss Under Arrest In Shooting Affair

One Unidentified Man Is Shot To Death, Another Seriously Wounded In Allegheny County

OFFICIALS BEGIN TO MAKE ROUNDUP

Guy Volpe, Political Boss Of Wilmerding Accused By Wounded Man, Is Arrested

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, May 16.—With one man dead and another dying as the result of a night of violence in which the ugly menace of gang warfare was borne again to Allegheny county, detectives today placed under arrest Guy Volpe, Wilmerding political boss, while they tried to clear up the latest outbreak of racketeering murders.

Volpe was taken in custody shortly after William Mundy, 40, of Swissvale was found lying on the street with a bullet wound in his abdomen. A murderous attack at the Blue Moon Garden, a roadhouse, in which an unidentified Italian chef was shot to death.

Politician Arrested.

Mundy was rushed to Columbia hospital where an operation was decided upon in an effort to save his life. While being wheeled into the operating room police said the wounded man gasped out: "Guy Volpe shot me."

Detectives immediately arrested Volpe and began a search through underworld haunts here seeking to establish the identity of the other men.

Propose Change In City Zoning

Ordinance Introduced Into Council At Session This Morning

COUNCILMEN WILL SCRUTINIZE PROJECT

Should city council act favorably a bill introduced today by Councilman Clayton Reeves when taken in formal session at city hall the zoning ordinance will be changed.

Under the provision of the proposed ordinance it will be permissible to erect gasoline service stations in secondary and main business districts providing requirements of the city planning commission are carried out.

The present zoning ordinance prohibits such construction unless the person who desires such construction secures the unanimous consent of all people residing within the radius prescribed by the law.

The proposed law provides that a public garage or gasoline station must be 200 feet distant from a residential section, repair shops must be in the rear and the entrance must be made in certain prescribed manner.

The proposed city act provides that before a building permit is granted the person or firm must first secure the approval of the city planning commission and must submit a plan of the proposed building.

Solomon White made it obvious that the proposed ordinance will not apply to residential sections. "The city will not allow gasoline stations to be constructed in residential sections," he declared.

Mayor Gillespie suggested to council that the bill not be sent to committee before it has been given consideration. During the next few days the city fathers will gather around council table and discuss the proposed measure thoroughly.

Grundy And Pinchot Leading Battle For Dries Throughout State

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PITTSBURGH, May 16.—Pennsylvania, the banner Republican State of the Union, where nomination is equivalent to election, is undergoing an acute attack of party colic.

Nothing quite like it has ever been seen before—three candidates for senator, each with a chance to win, three candidates for Governor, each with a chance to win—a far cry from the old days when Boies Penrose used to nominate the candidate with a well directed grunt.

Tuesday Decision Day

The day of decision is next Tuesday and only the rashest of political prophets care to hazard an opinion as to the outcome—as to whether Frances Shunk Brown, of Gifford, or Thomas W. Phillips, of Pinchot, or Joseph R. Grundy, of James Davis, or Francis H. Bohlen will win the senatorship.

Phillips and Bohlen are running as out and wet wets. They are running only because the other candidates declined or evaded a direct stand on the issue.

Bert Garvin Here For Short Visit

Former New Castle Man Stops Off Enroute On Trip From South

H. L. Garvin, better known as "Bert" of Ft. Lauderdale, Florida, a former resident of New Castle, was in the city today greeting old friends. He is enroute to Cleveland and other points on a business trip, before returning to the south.

During his visit in New Castle, Mr. Garvin was a guest at the home of his sister, Mrs. V. H. Defender of 1011 Logan street.

Mr. Garvin was for many years engaged in the steel business, having been located at Waverly, N. Y. He has been in the south for the past six years or more, having retired from active participation in the steel business.

Many of the older residents of New Castle who greeted him today, recalled the days when he was a player on the old Neshannock in the days of Line Love, and others, when New Castle had one of the greatest ball teams in the country.

Mr. Garvin is leaving early tomorrow for Cleveland, Ohio.

Food Show Wins Commendation

Exhibition In Progress Here Is Notable Success Of Entire State

GUS SMALZ'S BAND PERFORMS TONIGHT

Largest crowd of the week was present last night at the Cathedral to attend the Food Show of the Retail Grocers Association and its accompanying home beautiful exhibit.

Entertainment was afforded by the Peters family orchestra and Di Jones and his quartet, and the crowd was kept in a good humor by these groups of entertainers.

As on previous evenings, a decided feature was the presentation of gifts of products on display and baskets of food presented by grocers of the association, and this kept the large crowd on the job until a late hour.

Tonight, it is anticipated, will be the biggest night of the show because of the fact that Gus Smalz and his Little German Band from KDKA will be present in person to entertain the throng.

This is one of the most popular broadcasting organizations in the country and it is anticipated that all radio fans will be on hand to get a personal glimpse of the members of the organization and hear them perform.

The show has been such a success that all exhibitors are clamoring for the opportunity to sign up for a show here next year. All claim that it is the best show of the kind that they have attended in a long time.

Winners of gifts last night were numerous and were as follows: E. G. Robinson, M. Steele, William Headling, Ella Campbell, Jane Allsopp, Florence Paul, Madge Perry, Mrs. G. Carpenter, Virginia Owens, Golda Shields, H. McWilliams, A. Lowry.

There's a funny gleam in the lady's eye, as she talks of the summer sports, she mentions tennis and swimming too and pleasures of other sorts. But one thing she says not a word about, the matter is quiet and dark is the custom of packing a box of grub and eating it out in the park. Now I do not mind if the coffee is cold, or there's sand in the mayonnaise, and I do not care if I pick out dirt from fingers for days and days. But one thing I must enter words about, and believe me I will not be that nuisance of eating a load of ants, or a spider dropped in my pie. And well she knows that I like it not, but she's up to her old time tricks of thinking of suppers out in the park, the weather is sixty-six.

"Wets" Plan For New Attack Upon Prohibition Act

New Plan Of Battle Placed Before House Today By Rep. Oliver, New York

SEEK TO CONTROL APPROPRIATIONS

(International News Service) WASHINGTON, May 16.—A new plan of battle against prohibition was placed before the house today when Rep. Oliver (D) of New York urged the wets to begin a fight to prevent federal appropriations for enforcement.

Declaring the wets have a long road to travel to win the presidency and both senate and house, Oliver proposed to concentrate on house elections as "a shorter road to success."

"The battle as for the wets is the control of the appropriations in the house," said Oliver. "For ten years most of all the members of the modification group have voted for all appropriations to enforce the law. The period of experiment is over."

"If the modificationists desire a change their only method is to control appropriations. No appropriations should be on the campaign banner of every man running for congress on a pledge to liberalize the law."

The time has come, he added, to disregard the charge of "nullification" which he predicted would be hurled against his plan.

tabish whether any connection existed between the shooting of Mundy and the slaying of the Italian cook.

Another man arrested was Frank Plinio of Turtle Creek, who was taken into custody in East Pittsburgh.

Shooting Elsewhere

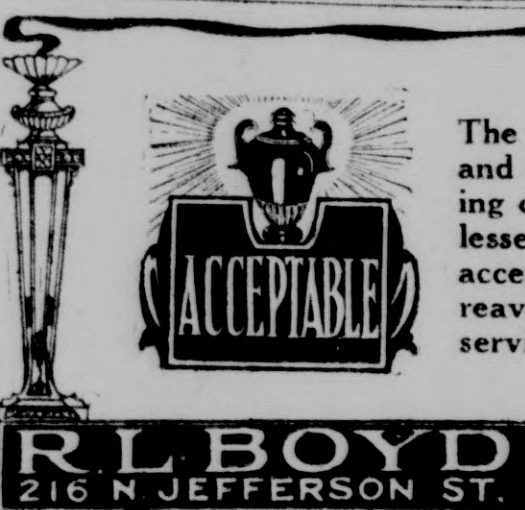

No evidences of a struggle were found near the spot where Mundy was picked up, detectives said, the prevailing opinion being that the shooting had taken place elsewhere and the wounded man thrown from an automobile to the street.

Mundy was picked up about 40 minutes after five men swooped down upon the Blue Moon Garden in a blue touring car, invaded the roadhouse and shot the Italian cook to death.

Police are searching for the cook's assailants and also for the roadhouse proprietor who disappeared mysteriously after ordering the body of his employee taken to Columbia hospital.

Shortly before noon today all efforts to identify the murdered man had failed.

Facts About Highway Systems

My opponent, Mr. Richards, takes to himself great credit for getting $76,000.00 for improvement of streets in New Castle, when in fact our City only gets its proportionate share of funds allotted to cities throughout the State for improvements on streets becoming a part of through highway systems; and the funds comes to this City through no special effort of his, but would have come in spite of his position.

The return of the $198,000.00 of which he boasts, to the County of Lawrence, is but the long postponed carrying out of an agreement with the State Highway Department to refund that amount advanced by the County to build the Butler Road, which agreement was made while Senator Weingartner was a member of the board of Commissioners of Lawrence County, and the Senator has made good by effecting its return as soon as the State Finances would permit.

WHY TRY TO GRAB THE SPOT-LIGHT?

Mr. Richards should be content to have so long basked in the light of reflected glory, and not seek to continue indefinitely.

I was a candidate four years ago. I came in second lacking only 330 votes. If you believe in a square deal, I will appreciate your support at the Primary May 20.

My name is number 2 on the ballot.

MORROW'S WET STAND CREATES POLITICAL STR

lican revolt against prohibition, the wets say.

The immediate effect of the Morrow announcement, it was declared, will be to embarrass the Hoover administration. A part of the administration and an American delegate to the London naval conference, he is the first outstanding figure in the administration to take a militant wet stand while President Hoover is demanding enforcement.

Drys were angered by Morrow's stand, and their answer may be an announcement from Rep. Franklin Fort, close friend of the President, that he will enter the New Jersey primary in opposition to Morrow. Fort has maintained silence he admitted Saturday he was toying with the idea. Fort "as expected to return to Washington later today."

F. Scott McBride, superintendent of the anti-saloon league, assailed Morrow's speech as an out-and-out wet platform.

"He has adopted the program of the association against the prohibition amendment," said McBride. "The association was against state option until we got prohibition and now they want it back again."

The dry policy toward Morrow, he said, would be framed by the New Jersey anti-saloon league.

Senator Jones (R) of Washington, prohibition leader in the upper house, declared that Morrow's plan "goes right back to where we were before we adopted the 18th amendment. I don't think the country wants to do that."

Rep. Bacharach (R) of New Jersey, a wet, praised Morrow, as did Rep. Laguardia (R) of New York, a wet and a progressive.

"I'll support him in preference to Frelinghuysen, who had a chance to run as a wet and turned it down," said Laguardia. "Morrow's stand is courageous."

A larger number of both wets and drys declined to comment, indicating that they did not want to enter into the controversy of another state.

Figures may not lie, but many a queer proposition is put over by a judicious selection of statistics.

STAR LORE GETTING A GREAT THRILL!

By Arthur DeV. Carpenter

One gets a great thrill from looking through a high-power telescope at what are known as globular clusters (star clusters in the form of globes). From northern latitudes the globular cluster of Hercules is very spectacular, containing more than 30,000 stars. It is seen from May to October.

The center of the cluster is so thickly shot with stars that it looks like one solid mass of starry matter, while further out from the center, separate stars are clearly seen. The Hercules cluster is 35,000 light years distant. Light travels 6 trillion miles a year. Before the age of civilized man, the light now arriving left Hercules cluster.

TUESDAY WINNERS HARD TO PREDICT OBSERVERS DECLARE

prohibition issue, which is just as hot in Pennsylvania as in other sections of the country. They are conceded only an outside chance to win, yet their candidacies may be the determining factor in the most amazing primary struggle Pennsylvania has ever witnessed.

Brown Vs. Pinchot
The real contest, it is conceded, is between Brown and Pinchot for the governorship and between Davis and Grundy for the senate. Brown and Davis are allied formally and from the standpoint of organization. Pinchot and Grundy are pursuing their separate ways. Yet, the force of circumstances and of politics have thrown them together and there are many Pennsylvanians today who are planning to vote that ticket next Tuesday. Both are dry.

The Davis-Brown ticket has the advantage of having both the Pittsburgh and Philadelphia organizations ostensibly for them. In any ordinary year and under ordinary circumstances, this would be sufficient, but this is not an ordinary year, nor are these ordinary circumstances. On all sides the prediction is made that next Tuesday will see more cutting and scratching in the most amazing primary struggle Pennsylvania has ever witnessed.

Forecasts Made
Here in Western Pennsylvania, the betting is ten to eight that Pinchot will win the governorship nomination, despite the fact that the Vore organization in Philadelphia is pledged to the candidacy of Francis S. Brown. The betting on the Grundy-Davis battle is even, notwithstanding Davis' support by the Vore machine and his prestige as a cabinet officer under two presidents.

Respect Grundy
There is a wholesome respect evidenced everywhere in the western part of the state for the political sagacity and resourcefulness of "Old Joe." He has and still is conducting a most vigorous campaign and irrespective of who wins, it is conceded that there is an excellent prospect of the victor in November running afoul of the same late that befell William S. Vore four years ago.

Vore won a smashing victory only to be denied his seat on the ground that he spent too much money to obtain it.

The present campaign in Pennsylvania is not being run on a shoe string—by any of the candidates. Bill boards and full page advertisements in the newspapers flaunt the virtues of the various candidates. There are campaign tours and nightly meetings from the Monongahela to the Schuylkill. Such activity is not gratis to any candidate.

Senator Gerald P. Nye, (R) of North Dakota chairman of the special committee authorized by the senate to inquire into campaign expenditures, spent Wednesday in Philadelphia and Thursday in Pittsburgh. He was looking around, and he departed, the state promising there would be a searching investigation conducted after next Tuesday.

Muellentowners To Meet Monday

Arrangements Will Be Made For Reunion Of Former Pupils At This Time

Next Monday evening another meeting of the Muellentowners will be held at the West Side school building. At this meeting, arrangements will be made for the reunion of former pupils of the school which will be held during the coming summer.

The reunion will likely be held on the day before Old Timers Picnic so that those from a distance who attend, may also attend Old Timers Outing. It is the intention of the members of the Muellentown Association to make the reunion the most enjoyable possible and also, if possible, to have a regular home coming of former pupils and teachers of the school.

The Muellentowners stepped into the picture some time ago when J. Herb McIlvenny called a meeting of those who attended this school before the old brick was burned down. So successful was the meeting that those eligible to belong to this organization do not intend to give up their place in the sun and effort to hold the center of the stage from now on and it is expected the meeting Monday night will be much larger than that which attended the former meeting and that all who can, who attended this school, will be present.

Miss Fishwick, in fact, had been quoted at 1 to 5 when she started out with the American this morning but rapidly claimed the spot light as she played steady, if not inspired golf, to take advantage of Miss Collett's mistakes which were many and sometimes glaring. She was generally weak with her irons and, on the few occasions when her pitches obeyed her will, her putting came forward to betray it. Twice she missed 3-footers and a 2-footer. In all, she won only six holes of the thirty-three played.

COFFROTH CALLS "RUBY ROBERT" BEST RINGMAN

(International News Service)

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., May 16.—Fight fans are shedding a sympathetic tear for boxing promoter after listening to a radio address by James W. "Sunny Jim" Coffroth, one-time San Francisco boxing promoter and now a resident of San Diego.

Boxing promoters do not make the fortunes the public popularly supposes that they do, Coffroth told radio listeners. What with the interstate commerce commission prohibiting the interstate shipment of fight films, a considerable part of the revenue of a match is cut down, Coffroth said. He cited the case of Tex Rickard as a foremost promoter who had not made much money.

"I promote boxing bouts for fourteen years," Coffroth said. "It's not an easy road to wealth and I am not going to return to it."

Fitzsimmons was the greatest fighter who ever entered the ring, in the opinion of Coffroth, who characterized him as the "Napoleon or Lord Nelson of prizefighting."

"If Fitz fought Jack Dempsey today, their ages being equal, I would bet on Fitz," declared Coffroth.

Reminiscing about events he promoted, Coffroth said Battling Nelson took $5000 for the picture rights on his fight with Jimmy Britt in San Francisco, but that Britt insisted on being in on the percentage of profit. "I paid Jimmy Britt $100,000 for his share of the picture right," said Coffroth.

SPIES!—ROBBING SENATOR'S OFFICES

ALMOST 20 years have passed since the first congressman broke into a cold sweat and hot anger on the discovery that he was being shadowed by a detective. From that time on few members have missed the experience of being watched by secret agents of one sort or another, or of being investigated for family or political skeletons.

During the war and while the oil scandal probe was in progress, to be shadowed was to be in fashion. The art of putting moral pressure on legislators developed rapidly, and has been cultivated by congressmen themselves, blocs, "special interests," lobbies and foreign powers. It was not so long ago that members of both houses found themselves under the surveillance of their own government.

Reminiscent of all this is the rifling of the private office of Senator Johnson in the senate office building. Several other senators have reported similar experiences. In the case of Senator Johnson a special guard was placed on duty, but even that precaution did not prevent a repetition the next night.

This state of affairs appears intolerable to the American people and public men, but the European accepts it as a matter of course. The latter's reaction to the Johnson episode and others like it is that the United States is just growing up politically, for to him spy systems, shadowing, purloining of secret papers, and similar acts of secrecy are evidences of political maturity.

A MASS MIGRATION

Census returns from three assembly districts in New York City show a continuing drift of population from what was heretofore the congested Lower East Side of Manhattan to the Bronx, Queens and Brooklyn sections of Greater New York. It may be regarded as one of the larger mass migrations of history.

There are 150,962 fewer people living in those three assembly districts than there were when the census of 1920 was taken. Limitation of European immigration is having an effect. The higher standards of living are causing the abandonment of old-law tenement houses of the more unhealthy and dingy sort. And the encroachment of adjoining business districts is having its effect in driving away the polyglot population that two decades ago made the Lower East Side of New York notorious for its overcrowding and insanitary conditions of living.

It is now predicted that within comparatively a few years this vast slum section will have disappeared. The Lower East Side will be taken over by business. Better housing and more healthful conditions are demanded, even by those of comparatively recent immigration.

The problem of transportation is increased, for the workman lives further away from his job, and New York seems unable to build tunnels and subways fast enough to keep up with the drift.

Another phase of this mass migration that will be interesting to watch will be the change it will make in the political complexion of America's largest city. Political power will ultimately follow the present voting strength away from taxpaying Manhattan to home-owning Brooklyn or apartment dwelling Bronx or to the newer stretches of Queens. Political methods that controlled New York through a vast congested foreign-speaking population within a limited area, will no longer be potent if the outlying boroughs assert themselves.—The Roanoke World-News.

MUSCLE SHOALS PROJECT

Muscle Shoals promises to inspire more plans than the tariff bill has amendments. One has just been thrown overboard by the house military affairs committee and another drafted to take its place. We lost count several years ago but by starting now an impressive total probably could be struck before the question is finally settled by that body of men which doesn't know what to do but won't admit it.

The new plan, which provides for leasing this costly government property, conforms to the recommendations of the president and with American policy and tradition.

It would authorize the president to appoint a board of three to lease the plants for 50 years for the manufacture of fertilizer and development of power. By leasing it for private operation the government would not lose control of either the plants or their products.

Congress has dangled with this problem far too long. It was time for action years ago. Anything is better than getting no return from the vast investment represented and permitting that great store of potential power and production to go to waste.

What puzzles the layman is that the government has not long before this experimented with the several plans proposed and ascertained within the necessary limits which promised to pay the richest public dividends.

The only good lobbyist is the one in the looking glass.

The devil can quote a modificationist to his own purpose.

It probably always has been true that one generation thought the next one was going to the bad.

If you are too lazy or too slow to enter the races, you can sit on the fence and get fame as a critic.

The new tariff bill at least furnished employment to those who made the record of the 5,000,000-word debate.

The four major problems of this country are dandelions, used safety-razor blades, second-hand cars and congress.

"Dry raiders found snakes and lizards in a jug of liquor." Some of the old-timers can find elephants and tigers in a bottle.

Politicians are an energetic bunch. Although it takes effort to make promises and none to break them, they make as many as they break.

The old-fashioned fellow who coasted down hill with his feet on the handle-bars left a boy who has just signed with an air circus for the fairs.

If "life is a ladder with many rungs mission," perhaps this explains why one has to stretch so hard at times going up and slips so easily coming down.

Mr. Trotsky says civilization will come to a close in about 10 years. Still, if true, that will have given civilization a longer run than "Abe's Irish Rose."

Science is something that finds ways to obliterate whole populations in the event of another war, and never really discovered how to exterminate a dandelion in a lawn.

Nothing in the way of "big news" when this was written at 5 o'clock Wednesday.

The British seized some more of Gandhi's men. A little fighting seems enough for the Mahatma's followers.

The Jugo-Slavian King Alexander is accused of allowing police to torture political prisoners. One, brought to court in a wheel chair, says he was beaten, tied with ropes, whipped with canes, at intervals, all night long. Other prisoners were treated in similar fashion.

Civilization backward in some places, in others makes progress. Not long ago, men accused were tortured everywhere, to make them tell what they knew. Torture is no longer legal.

When Queen Elizabeth decided to cut off the head of her lover, Essex, she was praised for her restraint in not having him put to the torture. His abject submission and fear of things he might have said under torture, about the woman whom he indiscreetly described as an ugly old hunchback, may have caused the unusual gentleness.

Ralph Sanders was to start yesterday from Harlingen, Texas bound for New York, riding a large black bull. He will race with Benjamin Stack who starts 30 days later, driving a goat and a donkey.

Mr. Stack bets that he will get to New York first in spite of Sander's 30 days start.

That is unimportant in days of airplanes and automobiles but everything strange interests us. Fashionable ladies in the Medici days liked hideous dwarfs, old kings had their "court fools," the great astronomer Tycho Brahe made all at his table silent when an idiot eating scraps at his feet mumbled words supposed to have deep meaning.

The "crucial" society of course, will see that the bull, goat and donkey are properly shod.

The League of Nations will print a report on the "morals of the United States." You may say, crudely: "None of the League of Nations' dished business."

Nevertheless, Mademoiselle Chaptal severely criticised our moral conditions, especially as regards childhood. She finds that with us:

"Hygiene frequently takes the place of morals and physical health takes precedence over conscience. The human soul does not seem to be regarded as a living reality."

Perhaps we do neglect our souls occasionally what with one thing and another.

But let us be grateful that nobody forced us into the League of Nations. Had that happened, they would probably come over and fix our souls, morals and children for us, according to Mademoiselle Chaptal's ideas, forcing us to accept their morals, souls and conscience in place of our bathtubs, playgrounds and washing machines.

Dwight W. Morrow, candidate for the Senate in New Jersey, will be attacked by the dries with special tactics. They mean to run a dry independent against him, reviving the old Prohibition party.

Prohibitionists have nothing personal against Mr. Morrow. In fact, they compliment him, saying he is so "distinguished" that it would hurt prohibition if he won his race on a wet platform.

Mr. Morrow learns, from politicians, that in New Jersey, he could not be elected on any other platform.

As to whether the supreme court, as organized today, is too conservative, too unresponsive to the human side of present-day problems, considerable comment is to be found.

"If the large majority of the American public is to be consulted, it may easily be that that majority would favor an addition to the bench of a new judge in sympathy with the views expressed from time to time by Justice Holmes and Justice Brandeis, rather than a new judge in sympathy with the majority of the court," avers the WHEELING INTELLIGENCER.

"The court is now constituted with six of its nine members leaning toward a strictly conservative interpretation of the law," explains the NEW-ARK EVENING NEWS, as it goes on to state: "That may be the right attitude for the court to take, yet it needs also men whose learning in the law is tempered with social intelligence. There must be fluidity of progress. The court needs an open-mindedness and understanding of the human factors in its legal equations."

This paper contends, as it claims that, "to reject a man because it is believed he will not give life to the court, preserve it from stagnation and make it a more useful servant of the people is to honor the court, not to attack it." In fact, the PROVIDENCE JOURNAL thinks, as it reviews the decision, that "we may discern the traces of senate resentment against the supreme court as it is at present constituted."

"Sentiment generally, except among extreme partisans," according to the SCHENECTADY GAZETTE, "will find ample justification for the rejection of Judge Parker. The unfortunate result of the whole affair is that it is going to bring future nominations under suspicion; that really outstanding men will be subjected to greater criticism and annoyance, it is nominated to the court, and that it tends to lessen that respect for the judiciary which is essential to good and successful government."

"The chief and lamentable result," in the judgment of the SAN FRANCISCO CHRONICLE, "will be to

Synopsis of Editorial Views By Newspapers of Nation on Important Subjects as Edited by Consolidated Press Association

Rejection Of Judge Parker Treated As Vital Precedent

Public Sentiment Strongly Expressed On Both Sides Of Subject As Involving Character Of United States Supreme Court

Whatever the opinions expressed on the rejection of Judge Parker as appointee to the United States supreme court, the matter is treated by the country as of extreme importance. The widely repeated accusation that the senate played politics is met by the equally emphatic charge that the appointee lacked sympathy with the human side of current problems.

"What was the basic reason for the senate's rejection of Judge J. Parker for the supreme court bench?" asks the ATLANTA JOURNAL, and then answers its own question, saying finally: "The broad and basic reason for Judge Parker's rejection was a conviction, especially on the part of the southern Democrats voting 'no,' that the nomination was not determined by his fitness for service on the highest and mightiest tribunal of the nation, but instead, by political motives of a very devious character."

Concurring in this opinion is the view expressed by the CINCINNATI NEWS AND OBSERVER, which says: "Against the appeal of a sort of southern patriotism, peculiarly the demoralizing effect upon the Parker support from the south of the revelation that his appointment was being promoted as a political measure for entrenching southern Republicanism."

The CHARLOTTE (N. C.) NEWS figures that in the defeat of Judge Parker there is a sign that "the old order of things is passing," but it looks to us strangely as if the old order of low-down politics is very much in the saddle at Washington. The ST. LOUIS TIMES rates the rejection as "in the last analysis due to the fact that President Hoover could not command the strength of his party. However this may be, the SPRINGFIELD (MASS.) UNION believes that "President Hoover will gain strong support in public sentiment and the enemies of his administration in the senate will lose greatly by this struggle over the nomination of Judge Parker and the result."

Many papers are led to comment on the supreme court. "Ambitious practical politicians have no place upon that bench, nor should it be used as a clearing house for the payment of political debts," says the AKRON BEACON JOURNAL.

Equal and exact justice implies and demands an independent judiciary," affirms the SAN ANTONIO EXPRESS, attacking the senate's action, while the CINCINNATI TIMES-STAR declares that "appointments to the federal supreme court are one field where the senate should never play politics or indulge factional or personal grudges." The NEW YORK EVENING POST sees in the rejection of Judge Parker "an injury to the country" in that it "tends to confirm us in a sectional supreme court." The ATLANTA CONSTITUTION looks upon the prospect "that the composition of the highest court in any civilized nation is to be determined by the spoils of politics and the dictation of threatening factions" as something to "give a chill of alarm to every patriotic, red-blooded American."

It is serious, indeed, says the INDIANAPOLIS STAR, "if appointments to the supreme court have to be dragged through the mire of prejudices and pettiness. The supreme court should be farthest removed of all branches of government from the influences such as cropped out in the consideration of the Parker appointment."

As to whether the supreme court, as organized today, is too conservative, too unresponsive to the human side of present-day problems, considerable comment is to be found.

GOLF TRUTH

Of Golf achievement here's the truth! Were I as young as Horton Smith! As sound of mind, as strong of limb My swing might be as crisp and trim; My drives might be as straight and far

And I might shoot the course in par. Had Horton Smith my stomach round, My shoulders fixed and muscle bound, My weight of years, my older sight My wrists and hips, then Horton might Be often moved to question why He could no farther drive than I.

An old man's game, is golf, they say! It is a game the old men play. And worry over, but the truth is mastery belongs to youth. When Horton Smith is as old as I, He'll watch the younger blades go by.

So needless is it to repine Because the drive is off the line. The stomachs that are in the way, The years have put on us to play.

And Horton Smith will lose his game When time has tampered with his frame.

Wednesday of this Holy Week he performed the magnificent ceremony of the sacred oils, assisted by fifty-five priests in the sixteenth century cathedral, about which the life of Guadalupe revolves.

Thursday occurred the interesting ceremony of washing the feet. Eleven old peons brought in from the street sat in a row, each with his right foot bare. Two were farm laborers in white cotton drawers and white shirts. Another was an old fellow who looked like Portillo Diaz, but who was blind in one eye.

The others were humble folk picked up from the street. They looked abashed and uncomfortable while the archbishop in his magnificent robes knelt in front of each in turn and from an old-fashioned bowl and pitcher poured the water dried the wet feet with a fine linen cloth and bent almost to the ground to press a kiss upon each foot. Friday there was no mass conducted in the church. It was a day of seclusion and meditation. This afternoon the purple veils that covered all of the religious images were swept aside and the bells pealed in a wild clamor. In the street outside the peasants held an orgy of burning Judas. Peddlers all over the town sold tiny wood figures of the great traitor to be burned with howls of rage by the faithful. Tomorrow, Easter Sunday is the great day. A pontifical high mass will be celebrated at the cathedral with the pomp and magnificence of ritual with symbols and old Gregorian chants that go back to the days of imperial Rome and beyond.

American Team Routs British

Retain Possession Of Walker Cup For Sixth Successive Year By Smashing

By HARRY R. FLORY

SANDWICH, Eng., May 16.—For the sixth time in succession, America vindicated its right to possession of the famed Walker cup today by routing a team of accomplished British-ers in a sensational series of singles matches.

With three points already chalked up in yesterday's foursomes, only four victories were needed today to enable the American eagle to keep its claws firmly clenched on the coveted trophy.
These victories were reeled off in quick succession. With the English going down to overwhelming defeat beneath the inspired clubs of American invaders, Bobby Jones captained his team to its brilliant victory by a personal triumph, defeating his rival captain, Roger Wethered, 9 up and eight to play.

The rout of the Britishers was almost complete. George Voigt defeated Sir Ernest Holderness by the overwhelming score of 10 up and 8 to play, while Harrison Johnston, American national amateur champion, downed the dangerous Cyril Tolley 5 and 4.

George Von Elm brought in the winning match which gave America the right to retain the cup by defeating Rex Hartley, winner of the St.
George's vase tournament last week.
3 and 2 in a bitterly-contested match.
The first British victory to be recorded was that of T. A. Torrance over Francis Ouimet. The Englishman, who made such a brilliant showing in the foursomes yesterday, overwhelmed Ouimet with a superlative brand of golfing skill, winning 7 up and 6 to play.

Worries

Annually city authorities are vexed by two problems—
Chickens and dogs!
The former dig into gardens and the dogs decide that the proper place to find a buried bone is in a flower bed.

As a result the police busy periods sometimes are made more busier by calls from exasperated folk.

But a new problem now confronts city authorities—Pigeons!

Yes, sir, according to remarks passed in city council today pigeons are eating a certain man's garden.
He is vexed and wants something done.

There is no ordinance which controls the flight or habits of pigeons and council was stumped.

"It looks as though the injured party will have to bring a suit for damages," opined Solicitor Robert White.

Lakewood Opens Within Few Days

Management To Announce Date
Next Week; Improvements
Are Completed

Preliminary arrangements for the opening of Lakewood beach, pleasure resort situated near East Brook, have been completed and definite announcement of the opening date will probably be made next week, John D.
Rung, the proprietor, said today.

Considerable improvements have been made about the place during the past month or so; the bottom of the beach along the shore has been washed, and a new swimming pool has been provided for smaller children.

The management this year promises to furnish the best of facilities for handling large picnics this year, as it has capably done in the past.

Teak is used for shipbuilding because it is the hardest wood and in addition contains an oil that prevents the nails driven into it from rusting.

There is only one universal language that all men the world over can use and understand—the language of feature and gesture.

Local Pennsy Agency Leads Regional Race

Determined to outdo other Pennsylvania railroad regional freight agencies in a spirited competition for General Manager C. I. Leiper's banner, given that agency which handles its freight shipments with the greatest freedom from mistakes, men of the New Castle agency worked hard last month and now have learned that their efforts were by no means wasted—first place being won by them for the 30-day period ending April 30.

The report for the April records reached local freight headquarters today.

To win the banner means to top other agencies in the matter of errors made in the billing and handling of shipments of freight while at the transfer office. The New Castle office was in a good position for the first three months of the year, but Alliance, O., was a trifle better

American Foreign Trade Figures Are Away Below 1929

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, May 16.—Showing a still further recession in April, American foreign trade for the first four months of the year was more than $600,000,000 below the level of the same period in 1929, the commerce department announced today.
Exports for the period amounted to $1,463,313,000, a reduction of $381-576,000, while imports were $1,201,144-000, a drop of $331,679,000.
During the four months there was a net import of $184,861,000 in gold which had a tendency to still further erode the credit situation. April gold imports exceeded exports by $65,432-000.

Power To Deal With Absentees

New Measure Would Give Department Heads Power To Act

WOULD AFFECT CITY EMPLOYEES

Councilman Clayton Reeves today submitted a proposed ordinance to city council which would give the mayor and superintendent of public safety full authority and power to deal with firemen and police who absent themselves from duty without having been injured or wounded while performing their city duties.

The ordinance, which was sent to committee, provides that the heads of the two departments can make all the rules covering the situation and gives them power to impose punishment—which can go so far as dismissal from their positions.

The ordinance provides that firemen and police cannot be absent from duty without pay for a longer period per month than two days except on vacation, unless injured while working so as to entitle the employee to compensation under the Workmen's compensation act, in which event he will be continued on the payroll for one month of his absence and shall be required to take compensation under the state act for the balance of absent time.

If the employee is absent longer than two days a month without having been injured he may receive pay without the consent of the mayor or superintendent of public safety but must make up the lost time from the days he is allotted for vacation.

Teachers Enjoy Social Evening

Four Hundred In Attendance At Program At Washington High

After centuries of laboratory experimentation and social research work, it was proven Thursday evening, May 15th, that school teachers are folk. Not abnormal or subnormal, not low brow or high brow, just folks even as you and I. The discovery was made at the annual dinner of the New Castle chapter of the Pennsylvania State Educational association in the George Washington Junior High school cafeteria. About 400 people were present, including teachers, board members and some invited guests.

Dr. C. C. Green, superintendent of schools and president of the local chapter was the toastmaster of the evening, although the program was not a lengthy one. A cabaret system was used, with the entertainment numbers interspersing the courses.

Following the dinner the evening was spent in a number of diverting ways and the opinion seemed to be that the affair was one of the most pleasant the organization has held.

Principal James M. Hughes was the chairman of the entertainment committee, with Miss Emilie Salomon chairman of the decoration committee.

Mother Jones, labor worker living at Silver Springs, Md., celebrated her 100th birthday May 15. She was the recipient of many messages of love and congratulations and received many.

SOME OF THE NATIONAL PARKS
Pres. HOOVER may VISIT

Business will be combined with pleasure by President Hoover on his 6,000-mile tour of the nation's parks in July, since he plans to make several speeches en route. Washington political observers point out that he will have an opportunity to gauge the political sentiment of the states through which he will pass and that he will travel through many senatorial battle grounds on which Democrats are making strenuous efforts to capture Republican seats. Above are photos of scenes the president will visit and a map of the territory he expects to cover.

Three-Way Probe Of Post Office Leasing Will Be Undertaken

Investigations Are Calculated To Produce Another Teapot Dome Scandal

First Class Row Between Senate And House Is In Making

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, May 16.—A three-way investigation into 6,000 postal station leases throughout the country calculated to produce "another Teapot Dome," according to its sponsors, was in the making today.

With an inquiry already authorized by the senate, Rep. Williamson (R) of South Dakota, chairman of the committee on expenditures, planned to introduce a resolution in the house conferring the same authority on his committee.

At the same time, Rep. Maas (R) of Minnesota, who set the wheels in motion, disclosed the federal trade commission already has men in the field checking up bond issues on the buildings.

Row In Prospect
A first class row between senate and house was in prospect as well as a grilling for the postoffice department. The house is justified in proceeding despite the senate's action because it started an "under cover" inquiry two weeks before Sen. Blaine (R) of Wisconsin obtained senate authority, declared Williamson who has the backing of his committee.

While the senate authorized $10,000 for the investigation, Williamson proposed to give the house committee $25,000. He would authorize the committee to detail a sub-committee to carry the investigation into every part of the country during the summer.

Maas welcomed all inquiries, declaring it will be shown that during the past 20 years the postoffice department has made long-time contracts for rent of postal buildings especially constructed, at exorbitant rents.

TWELVE HUNDRED APPLAUD TIGERS CLUB PERFORMANCE

written after the fifth annual Tigers Club show.

The gathering was treated to a variety of theatrical productions. Tap dancing, string interpretations, musical song hits, a minstrel show, and an "Immigration Four" act all of which scored a tremendous hit with the crowd.

Immigration Act Good

Following the "Tiger's Toast Song" sung by Helen Ross assisted by the Vanity Girls, the Immigration Four presented an act "They Join the Army." Those famous local comedians Harry Ross, Frank Colo, Ernie Palus and Mike Ross presented the skit in a clever "theatrical" way which scored with the crowd.

Rose Toscano, a small winsome

Miss, was another feature of the show in her song and tap dance. This little Miss put over the song and tap dance in a real professional way. The Harmony Boys String trio played two selections that pleased the audience. G. Micaletti, J. Frenkel, C. Pacelli, assisted by vocal refrains by Olga Ludovici composed the quartet.

New Castle has some coming movie stars it was demonstrated in the next number, a song by sweet Genevieve Thomas and Donald Wyman. The two sang one song together in a splendid manner. Genevieve Thomas followed by a solo which was presented in a clever way.

Minstrel Show

The second part of the show was the minstrel. Mike Ross was the soloist. A miniature radio station was installed in the auditorium with W. N. Chill as announcer. The minstrel drew tremendous applause from the audience especially end men Harry Ross and Ernie Palus who had a lot to do with the success of the show. The members of the Tiger Club wish to thank all those who helped to make their fifth annual production a success.

Display Treasure

Chests In Window

An exhibit of Friendship treasure chests packed by school students of New Castle is shown in a window of the Pennsylvania Power company, Washington street.

These chests contain toys and things which the children of the Philippine Islands will enjoy. Thirty thousand of these will be sent by United States to the Philippines and the New Castle schools have certainly done their share to help the foreign children understand the feeling of good will between the younger generation of United States and Philippines.

Turkey Meetings

Well Attended

The two meetings recently conducted by C. O. Dossin poultry specialist of State College on the farms of Frank Ferris, New Wilmington and Clarence Shaffer, Supper Rock township, for the purpose of discussing correct methods of raising turkeys, were well attended. County Farm Agent H. R. McCulloch stated this morning. Some facts of great interest to farmers were disclosed by Mr. Dossin.

Girl Pilot Sets Record, Handicapped

(International News Service)
ST. LOUIS, Mo., May 16.—Airplane pilots who seek looping records should not take the trouble to stop and fill their wing tank with gasoline.

This seemed to be a fact today following an announcement here recently that Miss Laura Ingalls, former professional dancer in New York and lately licensed pilot, lost credit for sixty-six loops when she established a world record here by performing 344 loops over Lambert Field. Miss

Ingalls really made 410 loops, it was revealed, but she was deprived of them because she paused to fill her wing tank with gasoline during her maneuvers.

Correct this sentence: "I'm paying for the room," said the hotel guest,
"but I don't feel free to drop cigarette butts on the rug."

it costs no more.

After all is said and done—we believe in quality—that's the thing that keeps Puritan outstanding as one of the leading brands of America. People have confidence in it.

We don't need to talk to Puritan users.

The Way OF THE World

By GROVE PATTERSON

SWEETNESS

Our government—any government —sometimes justifies itself by sentiment, by a kind of thoughtfulness and sweetness that makes a greater contribution to human happiness than some of the wisest statutes.
The United States ending several thousand gold star mothers abroad that they may see where their husbands and sons fought and died—that is sentiment. It is sweetness.
It makes us forgive a hundred mistakes of democracy.

SMALL-SCALE

A certain man in public position has been described as "able, honest, small-scale." If that's the case he won't do. We have a right to expect every man in public life to be honest. We have a right to expect he will be able. But if he is both of these and yet can't think in big terms, deal with big figures, grasp the significance of a new and amazing world, he won't do. He is not fit for service in these difficult days.
No matter what a man's other qualifications, if he is small-scale the world cannot bother with him. He will do for some little jobs that have to be done and his service will be appreciated. But he can't go far. And if we send him far we shall be sorry.

COURAGE IN CONGRESSMEN

Congressmen who lay aside their convictions, if any, and switch their votes to try and please what they guess to be the majority of their constituency, in the end show themselves up as weak. They are too small-scale for their jobs. Thoughtful voters should send to congress the most able men they can find, men with convictions and courage. These men should act in congress not in an effort to guess the wishes of their party members back home, but in accordance with the dictates of their conscience and their best judgment.
They should make their position freely and fully known before election—during the campaign. If they have issues and do so honestly and on conviction, that is creditable. No one wants a congressman so narrow that even light can't penetrate him. And no one wants one who has no convictions. As far as guessing what the people want, he'll never guess right.

A CHILD

"He who helps a child," said Phillips Brooks, "helps humanity with an immediateness which no other help given to human creature in any other state of human life can possibly give again."

The middle aged are pretty much a total loss, not in ability or possibility of material achievement, but in the likelihood that they will greatly change their habits and their character. Character is formed early, and it cannot be taken down and put up again in a hurry.

Women Of U. S. Are Curiosity

AINA BULAK, Kazakhstan, U. S.
S. R., May 16.—Women who never had been or heard of short skirts, lipstick and bobbed hair, were introduced to those modernities by a party of American journalists who traveled the 3,000-mile journey from Moscow over the new Turkestan-Siberian Railroad, of which a 1,000-mile link has brought civilization to this community.

Miss Anna Louise Strong of Seattle and Miss Mary Van Rensselaer Cogswell and Mrs. Eugene Lyons of New York, members of the party were constant sources of interest and curiosity to the Kazakhstan feminine population.

American jazz phonograph records, too, were a source of interest to the natives whose only musical instrument is an elongated wooden horn called a "Jericho trumpet."

Berlin Has 100,000 Licensed Vehicles

(International News Service)
BERLIN, May 16.—Despite the mild weather the number of motor vehicles in Berlin fell off steadily in the winter, but the upward turn has now set in, and the number of vehicles licensed has reached the 100-000 mark. Actually, however, there were only 98,398 on hand on April 1, which is 258 more than the previous record, made on October 1, 1929.

Compromise May End Uprisings

Report British Government Seeking To Compromise With Indian Nationalists

(International News Service) LONDON, May 16.—With newspaper dispatches reporting fresh outbreaks of violence in India today, no confirmation could be obtained from any authoritative source of reports reaching London from Bombay that the British government might seek a compromise with Indian Nationalist elements.

These reports said the government was considering opening negotiations shortly with Mahatma Gandhi, Indian Nationalist leader, now in jail, looking to a settlement of the political situation in India.

Simultaneous with the circulation of the reports, an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Bombay said the Nationalist Congress headquarters at Bombay had extended a general invitation to volunteers to participate in a raid on the government-controlled salt works at Wadala, on Sunday.

Senator Robison of Kentucky has been nominated without opposition to succeed himself; thus giving the proofreaders another opportunity to get his name straight in print.—The Springfield, Mass., Republican.

Homestead Man May Face Murder Charge

Charge On Involuntary Manslaughter May Be Changed To First Degree Murder

(International News Service) PITTSBURGH, May 16.—Indications that Louis Maracini, of Homestead, instead of being placed on trial in criminal court for involuntary manslaughter, may face a murder charge, were seen here today coincidental with last minute developments in the case.

Maracini is alleged to have placed an air hose, carrying 120 pounds of pressure, against the body of Joseph Kubanya, Jr., 21, of Munhall, while both men were working in the Mesta Machine Company mill at Homestead on November 19 last.

Kubanya died two days later of internal injuries and an indictment charging involuntary manslaughter was handed up against Maracini subsequently by the grand jury.

Assistant District Attorney John F. Hagerty who was assigned to prosecute the case reported to District Attorney Andrew T. Park that an examination of the evidence convinced him the grand jury had erred in returning the manslaughter true bill and that the indictment should have been drawn for murder.

Judge Harry H. Rowand postponed trial of the manslaughter case on the recommendation of Hagerty and the matter will be presented to the June grand jury.

Indian Rebels Are Moved By Police

(International News Service) LONDON, May 16.—After twenty eight hours of "passive" struggle for supremacy in one of the strangest contests in history, police removed Mrs. Sarojini Naidu and her salt-raiding followers bodily from the duty road outside Dharasana today, according to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Bombay.

Mrs. Naidu, successor to Mahatma Gandhi and Abbas Tyabji as leader of the civil disobedience, or passive resistance campaign against British rule in India, was taken by automobile to the base camp of the salt raiders at Untadi.

Stage People Glad To Get Chance To Play In Movies

By FREDERICK A. CHASE
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, May 16.—The enthusiasm with which stage people enter the movies recalls the reluctance of old-time theatre idols to have their names connected with the screen.

When Bryant Washburn began his film career many years ago, he insisted that his contract contain the proviso that the Washburn name appear neither on the screen or in any publicity copy. It was between seasons when he was not working that he agreed to try pictures for the Essanay studios. "Those fucking things on the screen," he called the movies, and it was only in the spirit of I'll try anything once that he agreed to act in them.

In his first picture he played five different parts. And he liked doing it so much that instead of the ten weeks he intended to remain with them, he stayed seven years, and became one of the first popular idols of the screen with Francis X. Bushman, Mary Pickford, Dorothy Phillips and Charles Chaplin.

Washburn is back in Hollywood now, taking the part of a circus ringmaster in a talking picture.

One of the village dogberry's had stopped Mauri Grashin, wisecracking picture writer, for not having a rear license plate on his car.

"That's one on you," Grashin witticized. "I'm travelling incognito."

The cop looked puzzled, and Grashin said "Ta ta" and departed in a cloud of exhausted smoke.

The next day, a friend of Grashin's was driving the same car, and the same cop stopped him. The friend had heard of Grashin's exploit, and he laughed merrily at the constable and said:

"I'm travelling incognito."

"Well, here's a tag," the copper said. "I looked that word up."

Fan mail isn't what it used to be. The silly "trash" notes and impossible comments of yesterday have given way to intelligent criticism of a high order, it is announced.

Mildred Lowe of the Radio Pictures fan mail department says:

"To read fan letters nowadays, we need unabridged dictionaries, and dictionaries of musical terms. Often we get letters from musicians of note, discussing with the players their tonal qualities and vocal musicianship."

Lyrical euphony, and 'esthetic vibrations' are examples of the terms used. Teachers and students bring up fine points of diction and chide us for mixing metaphors, and the like.

This falls in line with the oft-repeated chant of the film producers: "Talking pictures are creating a new culture in America."

Women Return To Hoopskirts

WILLITS, Cal., May 16.—Bears were growing wild and free today in Willits as business men prepared for the Frontiers' Day celebration in July.

To match the men's Whiskerino Club a number of women have formed a Hoop Skirt and Sunbonnet Club.

The celebration will be in charge of the American Legion which will use the proceeds for community betterment and hospitalization work.

Henpecked Husband Sought Peace In Park

(International News Service)
NEW ORLEANS, La., May 16.—A park bench, long known as a haven for idlers and drifting humanity, recently became a sanctuary for a henpecked husband.

This was revealed when Louis Jung, census-taker assigned to visit the city parks to enumerate the "bums," found a man asleep on a bench. The man, on being awakened, protested vehemently:

"Say, I'm no bum or vagrant; I've got a home."

"Well, what are you doing here?" queried Jung.

"I had a fight with the wife and not being able to find peace at home I stepped over here. It seems though that a man like me can find neither rest nor peace anywhere."

Commends Rulings For Workers' Safety

HARRISBURG, May 16.—Safe-guarding Pennsylvania workmen who are engaged in mechanical occupation is one of the outstanding functions of the State Department of Labor and Industry and its efficiency in this particular endeavor has been testified by many interests.

Insurance companies that carry workmen's compensation insurance have frequently made the statement that the department's rules and regulation for safety in the shops and mills and in all factories are far better for the safety of employees than those of any other state.

Additional testimony has come from the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, with headquarters in New York City, which prepares a code for the operation of boilers. The rules and regulations of the industrial board, Department of Labor and Industry, cover all boilers in Pennsylvania except heating boilers.

Game Wardens Aid Fish Law Forces

HARRISBURG, May 16.—The field force of the game commission has been instructed to give every cooperation possible to officers of the board of fish commissioners in enforcing the law.

The officers were instructed to pay special attention to violators who dynamite the streams or use nets to catch game fish.

Arrests included John Snowberger of Baker's Summit, who paid $140 on a charge of dynamiting a stream and killing four fish.

Forest Fires Held Worst Game Menace

Blazes in Pennsylvania Forests In Last Ten Days Have Been Very Destructive

Wild Turkey and Grouse Suffer Heaviest Loss To Young Birds And Eggs

By ROSS L. LEFFLER,
President, Board of Game Commissioners

Forest fires throughout the State during the past ten days have been exceedingly destructive to game as well as timber. Wild turkey, grouse, rabbits and squirrels unquestionably suffered more than other varieties of game.

Mature deer ordinarily jump through the flames and escape although many fawns are trapped and buried. Deer happen to be very abundant, in fact over abundant, in most of the sections where fires recently occurred and the loss of a few will not be noticeable. Wild turkey and grouse, to the contrary, are comparatively scarce and every nest with eggs destroyed means a curtailed future supply of birds. Continued losses this spring makes the situation relative to grouse and turkey quite alarming.

The Game Commission is now breeding wild turkeys on a game farm in Juniata County to restock depleted areas, of which there are many throughout the turkey range. But the toll of birds and nests taken by fires this spring must of a certainty be in excess of the number which can possibly be raised during the year, and perhaps for several years. The thought arises, if the native stock is permitted to burn, why should the Commission spend large sums of money in raising turkeys?

Situation Alarming
The grouse situation is even more alarming. Native stock must be depended upon to furnish sport, for there is no practical method of replenishing the supply. No one has yet been able to successfully raise grouse in captivity. Losses this year from forest fires must surely run into large figures, which means a seriously depleted supply for fall hunting. If hunters of the State want grouse to increase one of the best ways they can help is by preventing forest fires.

Some of the fires were caused by railroads, others from burning brush heaps, some were accidentally or carelessly set, while others, we regret to say were of incendiary origin.

The Game Commission is well aware of the many commendable activities of hunters in preventing and extinguishing forest fires and in the aggregate they are doing wonderful work in this connection. It is well known that thousands of them are taking a very active part in fighting fires. In fact, W. Gard Conklin, Chief of the Bureau of Refuges and Lands estimates that 95 out of every 100 men over seventeen years of age seen on the fire lines are licensed hunters. A most creditable showing to say the least. Also, it is well known that practically all sportsmen organizations in the State conscientiously and industriously spread the gospel of fire prevention. It is with a keen sense of regret however, that the Commission feels called upon to bring to the attention of sportsmen's associations the unsportsmanlike attitude toward forest fires, shown by a small minority of hunters. The pity is that a very small proportion of the State's hunting population, by their thoughtless and selfish attitude, can cast a stigma on the good name of the whole. Unfortunately, it seems to be the nature of humans to loudly condemn but rarely to give credit when due, and right now the good name of the hunters of this State is being besmirched by the attitude of a very few.

Game Refuge Devasted
Many thousands of acres of woodland, largely State Forest, burned within the last ten days in the South Mountain territory of Cumberland County. That fire, swept over State Game Refuge No. 27 near Pine Grove Furnace, a refuge containing 1409 acres which during the past ten years produced very good results in increasing game in that section. Many years will be required to bring back its usefulness. Grouse in the South Mountains were gradually coming back after having become almost exterminated. Now they have received a setback which will require many years to overcome, not only because the refuge burned but due to the loss of birds, eggs and grouse food on the many thousands of acres in that vicinity. Innumerable cottontail rabbits were also burned as well as other kinds of game.

The cause of this huge fire is more or less problematical but many rumors are circulating. One of the rumors was to the effect that deer hunters believed a waning supply of deer food, caused by an over abundance of deer, would be increased by burning some of the forest territory. And deer hunter who would give thought to the advisability of burning woodland in the hope of increasing their supply of deer certainly cannot, in my opinion be classed as a sportsman. Even though the burning of a tract of land might possibly result in a temporary increase of deer browse, the loss of timber and game on the area would be many thousands per cent greater than the meager benefit of deer.

Another rumor circulated was to the effect that men who had been prosecuted for violating game laws started fires in retaliation. Little credence can be given to such reports. One cannot conceive of any man acting with such stupidity. What possible satisfaction would it be to him? Why should he think that because he had violated a game law and was fined for it he would gain anything by burning timber and at the same time game which he himself would want later on in hunt.

Fail to Co-operate

Reports received indicate that some supposedly good sportsmen living in sections where forest fires have been prevalent, fail to co-operate with forest and game officers in the prevention and extinction of forest fires. Such reports are difficult to believe for it is almost inconceivable that any person interested in our game and forest resources could remain impassive while fire destroys these resources. Even more annoying are the reports that some hunters actually have gained the foolish impression that forest fires are in some respects beneficial to game, particularly deer. Only with the greatest reluctance has the Commission finally come to the conclusion that some of these reports are true, but at the same time realize those sentiments are not held by real red blooded sportsmen. Fortunately the number of hunters involved is very small, yet the fact remains that the actions of a small percentage can besmirch the good name of hunters as a whole.

Another report reached the office of the Commission which though difficult to believe, nevertheless appears reliable. Certain individuals having a hunting cabin on one of Pennsylvania's State Forests quite frankly admitted they would not fight fire unless it endangered their cabin. Men of that calibre certainly cannot be classed as sportsmen. They are of the type who think because they pay two dollars for a hunting license the Game Commission should supply them game in abundance, and are too selfish and lazy to lend assistance in a time of need. They are the type who criticize the Game Commission for not preventing illegal killing of game and who are disinclined to convey to a game protector information which would lead to the apprehension of those who do make illegal kills. They fail to realize that much more game is destroyed by forest fires than is illegally killed. Fine sportsmen they are not!

The amount of game in Pennsylvania has been steadily increasing for the past twenty-five years, brought about by concerted efforts on the part of the Game Commission and game conservationists. Many factors have played their part, including reduction of bag limits, closed seasons, reduction of violations, etc. It should be noted that upland game increased and continues to increase in about the same proportion as forest fires decrease. In other words, the protection of woodland areas from fires has unquestionably been one of the factors helping to increase game in the State. It is time that every hunter comes to a full realization of the need for preventing and extinguishing forest fires, and that all mobilize in one big army to attack the problems systematically and effectively. Forest fires and game will not exist on the same areas, and every sportsman should do his level best to prevent the actions and attitude of a few from casting a blot on the good name of this big army. The co-operation of everyone interested in game should be given to the control of forest fires.

Edwin Markham Attributes Success To "Madonna" Wife

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, May 16—He calls her "Madonna," and rightfully so, for what the outside world doesn't know is that she is his guiding spirit. Anna Catherine Markham, a little white-haired, beaming, motherly person, is her name and to Edwin Markham, her illustrious husband, that name means everything.

Mrs. Markham, who shares a roomy old-style mansion at 92 Waters Ave. in Staten Island with her husband and son, Virgil, has always been according to the poet, the creative urge behind Edwin Markham's famous poetry and prose—an urge that only the great poet knows because the tender encouragement and heartfelt influence tendered him by his wife, penetrates his soul. And without this influence and encouragement, if you can believe him, Edwin Markham might never have attained the esteemed position he now holds at the age of 73: "The People's Poet."

Three decades ago Mrs. Markham decided to forego her literary career and center all her ambitions in caring for her husband and son. Being a former school teacher, Mrs. Markham declares she is well able to read the proofs and listen and give suggestions on the latest efforts of her husband and son, Virgil, who seems destined to carry on where his father leaves off. Thus it seems, this little literary family continues to benefit mankind.

Volume upon volume of rare literary works, magazines, criticisms, miscellaneous novels, poetry and prose, actually flood the Markham residence. They are to be found everywhere but in the kitchen. "I see so many books, yet I have never seen Edwin's face in all the thirty years I've been married to him," recently commented Mrs. Markham in an interview concerning her white-haired, dark-eyed and bearded husband. "He wasn't the brilliant conversationalist he is now and I had always vowed not to marry a schoolmaster or a man with a beard, when I taught school thirty years ago, but his marvelous poetry and love overcame all my objections. I haven't written anything worth while in years but I'm content to edit the copy of the Markhams, the same copy that has made Edwin dean of American poets. But I enjoy every moment of it."

"One thing though, I don't see any reason for Edwin calling me 'Madonna.' There is nothing saint-like about my Celtic temper and have an Irish gift for laughter, something Madonna never indulged in." And then this kindly little lady retreated into her chamber, to edit some more Markham copy. But "Madonna" he calls her, and rightfully so.

Nimrods Kill Tarpon With Oars Of Boat

(International News Service)
TALLAHASSEE, Fla., May 16.—Two local nimrods—George Haddock and Curt Carter—tell the best fish story of the year.

Haddock and Carter used gill nets. While operating near Spring Creek they saw a big tarpon leap out of the water a few yards away and land on an oyster bar. They then pummeled the silver king with their oars until they could handle it with their hands and land it in their boat. To prove their capture of the huge fish, which weighed 85 pounds they brought it to town and put it on display.

Death Rate From White Plague Is Slowly Dropping

Study Shows How Once Dread Killer Is Being Conquered In Pennsylvania

MOST VICTIMS ARE YOUTHFUL

Death Rate In 1929 Is Lowest In History Of State, Records Show

HARRISBURG, May 16.—The progress Pennsylvania is making in its winning fight against tuberculosis was revealed today when the bureau of vital statistics reported in detail on death from that cause during the past year.

In 1929 there were 6188 deaths from tuberculosis. That means that of every 100,000 persons living in the State last year less than 64 died from that disease. In 1923, the bureau's record show 68.7 of every 100,000 had died from tuberculosis. It was as recently as 1921 that the tuberculosis death rate fell below 100 per 100,000 for the first time.

Comparison with a quarter century ago shows still more strongly how improved housing and sanitary conditions and better detection and treatment of the disease in the clinic and sanatorium have robbed the disease of the deadly power it previously had held. In 1906, first year for which the State has complete records, the death rate was 151.0 per 100,000 population, and the number of tuberculosis deaths was 10,780. Despite a 50 per cent increase in population since then, the death rate from the disease has decreased 57 per cent and the number of tuberculosis deaths has dropped 43 per cent. Although lacking definite figures for forty-five years ago, the bureau estimates that in 1883 the death rate was 300 per 100,000 population and that had there been no progress in the fight since then the yearly toll from tuberculosis would be more than 20,000 deaths instead of slightly more than 6000 now.

Despite this marked reduction, tuberculosis continues as the leading cause of death in the groups between 14 and 40 years of age, the most productive years of life.

Youthful Victims
"It kills those in whom society has made an investment in education and training, but from whom there has been little or no return in the form of services, or protection," the bureau analysis finds.

"Pennsylvania spends more than $1,000,000 a year in the fight against tuberculosis through the three State sanatoria and the 105 State clinics.

The State sanatoria alone care for more than 2000 adult patients, of whom the great majority return again to their homes definitely improved and with the prospect of years of active life which without sanatorium treatment would probably have been lost to them and to their families.

"Of the 1000 children who pass through the sanatorium each year only a comparatively few have active tubercular lesions in any form. Usually they are children who are undernourished or who show some evidence of having latent tuberculosis which can be prevented from becoming active.

In 1929 there were only 35 out of 1046 children discharged who had failed to respond to treatment. In other words a thousand children definitely in danger of tuberculosis were given a few weeks of life in a healthful environment with constant supervision by physicians and nurses, and returned to their homes improved in health and with a training in healthful living which will go far toward removing the menace of tuberculosis from their lives."

Braves Jailed For Old Indian Custom

PRICE, Utah, May 16.—An Indian custom of desecrating the graves of enemies, making a powder out of toe and finger nails of the dead, and sprinkling the powder in the enemy's water to cause loathsome disease, did not meet the commendation of a white judge.

Lloyd Catsee and Truman Hatch, Piute braves, were arrested at the complaint of other Piutes and charged with digging up the body of an Indian woman at Yellow Jacket and stealing the toe and finger nails. The young braves pleaded guilty and said they did it just for fun, thinking they could frighten some of the tribesmen.

What you expect you get with

Budweiser Barley-Malt Syrup

LIGHT OR DARK RICH IN BODY NOT BITTER

The Piute tribe, however, didn't think that was very funny, and asked the court to prosecute the jokesters as if they were white men, and "put them where they would try no more jokes."

Judge Dilworth Woolley was obligated to sentence the men to terms of one to five years each, but he recommended to the board of pardons that they be paroled after four months.

Guests Scatter When Wolves Join In Feast

BEIRA ALTA, Portugal, May 16.—Two uninvited guests today attended a large outdoor wedding banquet at Queijas and as a consequence the other guests had no refreshments.

The big feast was at its height. Suddenly two huge hung-up wolves trotted into the assembly of farmers. The guests fled. The wolves unconcernedly devoured the roast pigs and lambs and licked up enormous dishes of sweetened rice.

After satisfying their immediate needs they departed, carrying off two live goats from nearby pens. They were gone when the wedding guests reappeared with guns.

DOROTHY WARD HAS SIX YEAR RECORD

A large number of thrift awards were presented at the special exercises held at the North street school Thursday afternoon and all those depositing at least one coin a week throughout the school year received recognition.

Those saving one year received honorable mention certificates; two years, thrift army pins; three years, thrift champion certificates; and four years, thrift diplomas. For every additional year after a thrift diploma was received, a gold star was added to the diploma.

The thriftiest grade was 5A; 6B and 5B were tied for second place; and 2A, 6A and 4A were tied for fourth place.

In making the awards, the amount saved was not taken into consideration and all received the same credit regardless of the amount deposited per week. The pupil saving one cent a week receives the same credit as those saving larger amounts.

The awards were presented by Robert M. Strickler, Jr., representing the Lawrence Savings and Trust Company.

The following were the pupils to receive awards and the awards presented:

CHILDREN OF HOPE

Boys And Girls Of Stage And Radio Have School Problems Much As Others

By RUBY WEIL
By Central Press

NEW YORK, May 16.—At night they live in a glamorous world behind footlights or in front of microphones. But from 10 in the morning until 2:15 in the afternoon they parse verbs and divide fractions as if their lives were no different from those of other children.

Every one of the 250 children enrolled in the Professional Children's School has been engaged in some sort of theatrical work. About 100 are always on the road, continuing their studies through correspondence courses.

Instituted By Women
The school was started about fifteen years ago, after a group of women at the Rehearsal Club—a club and home for stage women—noticed some children coming into the cafeteria day after day. These were children of the stage. Acting at night rehearsing during the day, frequently on the road, they had little opportunity for regular schooling.

So one of the women started to hold classes at the club. There were six children that first year: Lila Lee and Mary Miles Minter were among them. When Tom Brown was playing recently in New York in "Many a Slip", traffic was held up for him as he rushed from the theatre to the radio studio, from which he broadcasts the role of Elmer in "Real Folks." He was considered too important to use a substitute.

Some of the Students
Both Eddie Wragge, aged 10, and his sister Elizabeth, 12, have become known to the radio audiences. At present Eddie has a juvenile role in the Theatre Guild production of Turpin's "A Month in the Country," while his sister broadcasts as "Sister" in "The Lady Next Door," and in the Penrod Hour. She has had roles in a number of talks as well as stage productions.

Carolyn Sammon at the age of seven had a part in the English revue, "This Year of Grace," last year. She has also done work over the radio and in the silent movies.

Dorothy Lull, who will graduate from the High School course with high honors this year, was a featured dancer in "Earl Carroll's Vanities" last year in New York and earlier this year on the road. She has never attended another school, and except for less than a year in New York all of her 12 years' work has been done by correspondence.

Where do they come from, these children of the stage? Perhaps a third from theatrical parents, mostly those of the circus or the vaudeville stage. But many others from homes in which the mother has nursed thwarted stage ambitions, or from families which recognized latent talents in some school performance. They are children of hope.

City Proposes To Take Route For Storm Sewer

When councilmen met at the city building today an ordinance which would condemn land for a storm sewer was submitted by Councilman Genkinger and sent to committee for further consideration.

The bill provides for condemnation of certain lands for a right of way across lands of S. J. Bratschie, Elizabeth R. Bratschie, Hugh Barnes, Terrell, Israel, Cemetery Association and City of New Castle Water Company in Neshannock township for the construction of a storm sewer.

The sewer, according to the measure, would run from Wilmington road to the Shenango river for the purpose of receiving storm water and diverting it from the limits of the city.

The right of way provided for is 10 feet wide. The damage shall be paid by the city and if an agreement cannot be reached the damage shall be assessed as provided by law, the bill continues. It further states that the interest that the city takes in the lands is solely an easement and right of ingress to and egress for the said easement and incidental to damages. If no settlement can be reached between the property owners and the city it may be recovered in an action of assumpsit.

Heavier Covers For Sewer Manholes Will Be Required

Those who follow the comic pages have often noticed the picture of the high-stepping man who carried his head toward the clouds, falling into a manhole but today it was a more serious matter than reading to the council which met in city hall.

According to City Solicitor Robert White a woman fell in a Clayton street manhole at which the cover had been removed and had to be helped out. As a result the city will have to pay in damages or effect a settlement.

Covers are too light. Two examples have been found in Delaware avenue and North Mercer street.

It is probable that in the future when contracts are let the city will request that heavier manhole lids be placed.

Brokerage Firm Record Will Be Rigidly Scanned

Special Investigator Will Be Sent By Senate To New York City To Examine Books

(International News Service) WASHINGTON, May 16.—A special investigator will be sent to New York by the Senate Lobby committee to inspect the records of the brokerage firm with which Bishop James Cannon, Jr., of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, dealt last year, it was announced today.

The committee is anxious to learn what became of $48,300 of the $60,300 that E. C. Jameson, New York insurance executive, gave Cannon toward the anti-Smith campaign in Virginia. Cannon has only accounted for $17,000 of the sum given by Jameson in his report to Congress.

Jameson is also a contributor to the anti-saloon league's political fund, according to records made public today by the committee. The investigator will probably confer with the U. S. attorney at New York about the defunct bucket shop of Cable and company, the chief of which is now serving a five year sentence at Atlanta, Ga., federal penitentiary. When federal agents raided the bucket shop they found Cannon had been transacting business there and that his name was used as "bat" to gain new customers.

County Bankers Hold Session At New Wilmington

College Town Affair Marks
Regular Meeting; Hear Different Speakers

Bankers to the number of 50, representing practically every banking institution in Lawrence county, gathered in the United Presbyterian church at New Wilmington last night for the regular bi-monthly dinner and program of the Lawrence County Bankers' association. Guests were present from the neighboring counties.

H. T. Getty of New Wilmington, newly elected president of the association was host to the association during the evening and presided over the program which followed a sumptuous roast turkey dinner, served under the auspices of the women of the church.

Dr. W. C. Wallace, Westminster president was in attendance as a guest. He extended the greetings of the college to the bankers.

Speakers for the evening included F. S. Schulz, of New Castle, past president of the association and active in the activities of the organization; Joel S. McKee, also of this city, and E. B. Harshaw, Grove City banker. Mr. Schulz spoke on "A Banker's Credit Exchange," Mr. McKee on "Security Bootlegging," while Mr. Harshaw, the guest speaker discussed the agricultural development and its relation to banks.

The program was interspersed by the numbers contributed by the Westminster male quartet, singing under the direction of Prof. Allan B. Davis of the college music department.

At the conclusion of the program, the bankers were escorted on a tour of inspection through Old Main Memorial and the other new college buildings by President Wallace.

Bankers were in attendance last night from Bessemer, Ellwood City, Volant, Wampum as well as New Castle and other places. The meeting marked the first for the new regime of officers.

New Castle Women Bereft Of Sister

Mrs. Flora Johnston, aged 70, is dead at the home of her daughter, Mrs. LeRoy Tullis of Beaver Falls. Surviving are three children, Emmitt H. Johnston, Oliver G. Johnston and Mrs. LeRoy Tullis of Beaver Falls; two brothers, Dr. R. E. Mercer of Pittsburgh and Dr. A. C. Mercer of Beaver Falls; three sisters, Mrs. A. C. Guy of New Brighton, Mrs. C. B. Anderson of New Castle, and Mrs. William Van Brocklin of New Castle; and five grandchildren.

Dr. C. B. Wingerd Banquet Speaker

Dr. Charles B. Wingerd is the speaker this evening at the Junior-Senior banquet for the High School in Zelienople. The engagement was arranged through the superintendent of schools. Some weeks ago Dr. Wingerd addressed a large banquet of Bible classes in the Presbyterian church there and requests were made for a return engagement.

USED CAR VIEWS

Many people have difficulty in deciding between a new or a used car. In years gone by this was justifiable, but hardly any more. Motor cars are made to stand normal use for a far greater period than the established "Blue Book" rates allow today.

A certain amount of any motor car price is for expensive dies, and manufacturing machinery. You never pay for this in a used car. The cost of style has been eliminated. Therefore, in a good used car you pay less per mile in investment.

You buy unused transportation in a used car just as surely as you buy it in a new car; but you pay less per mile.

Insurance is less on a used car. Your car is seldom older than 80% of the cars you pass on the road, most of which were bought new by the present owners.

All the little service jobs, rattles and what-not that invariably follow a new car purchase, have been taken care of. A good used car is a proven car.

You can be sensibly economical by purchasing a good used car from Shenango Motor Company now. Prices have been reduced to a minimum and all cars have been thoroughly reconditioned.

There are plenty of Model A Fords to select from and these have lots of unused miles yet. Priced right, too, for quick sale.

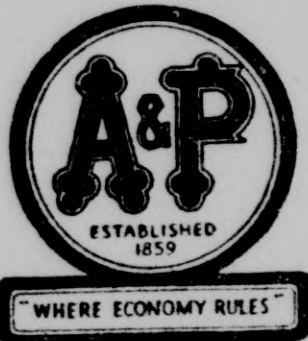

Then there are Buicks, Cadillacs, Whippets, Dodges, Chevrolets and most any car you care to select. If you have a favorite, we have it and priced for quick sale. Reasonable terms arranged, too. Also trucks and camping outfits. When in need of spare parts for most any make of used car we can usually supply that, too.

It pays to deal at Shenango Motor Company Used Car Lot, 210 West Washington St.

Curtain Rings Down On Last One Of Cast At Lincoln Shooting

By KEEN KAFFERTY,
Central Press Staff Writer.

BALTIMORE, May 16.—I saw both shoot Lincoln. I've played Shakespeare and the movies—and I'm twelve years older than East Lynne.

In that way, just before his death a few days ago, William J. Ferguson, for sixty years an actor, summed up his experience on the American and the European stage.

His death brought to an end one of the most extraordinary of theatrical careers.

Last of Famous Cast

He was the last surviving member of the cast of "Our American Cousin," which Abraham Lincoln was watching from a box at Ford's in Washington on the night of the assassination.

He was the oldest living member of the Lambs Club and had been informed of the length of his membership by word from New York just a few days before his death. He joined the club in 1892.

He was the author of the book, "I Saw Booth Shoot Lincoln," and was preparing a new volume, "Sixty Years On the New York Stage." He was in the original cast of "Charles's Aunt" and played with Richard Mansfield in "Beau Brummel" and with Robert Mantell in Mantell's first American appearance in Mme. Modjeska's "Romeo and Juliet."

Started as Call Boy

Although he said he had done everything from Shakespeare to the movies, his actual experience with the theatre began when he became a call boy at Ford's in Washington.

Born in Baltimore, he was a printer's devil on the long defunct Baltimore Clipper at the outbreak of the Civil War. It was upon leaving this newspaper that he took the job as call boy at the theatre where shortly afterward he saw Lincoln slain.

He had been pressed into service as a super in a Shakespearean piece, and was doing his bit with a massive spear on the stage when the President was shot.

From that spear-carrying bit and from the ordeal of the Emancipator's assassination he rose to eminence as one of the most valued actors of the American stage.

An injury to his hip caused his retirement from the stage in 1924, but before giving up and coming to the home of his nephew in a Baltimore suburb to live, Ferguson satisfied a desire which he long had felt when he went to Los Angeles and took part in the motion picture, "The Yosemite Trail."

His passing was quite, the last prayer had been said over his grave before the world knew that the last of the actors in the play on that fatal night at Ford's had also died.

Dinner Will Be Concluding Event Of Spring Reunion

Committee In Charge Of Arrangements Making Preparations For Mammoth Crowd

Plans are being made to take care of a record crowd at the dinner to be given under the auspices of the New Castle Consistory Dinner Club, which will be the concluding feature of the Spring Reunion to be held next week.

The dinner will be given on Friday evening and arrangements have been made to avoid confusion as much as possible. Two tables will be served, one at 6 o'clock and one at 7 o'clock, Eastern Standard Time.

Only 1200 tickets will be sold for the first table. After these have been disposed of, 800 tickets will be designated for the "second table." For this reason, those expecting to be present for the earlier dinner are asked to make their reservations immediately.

Reservations by card will close on Tuesday evening, May 20, after which the balance of the tickets will be sold during the reunion.

William J. Moffatt, general chairman of the program on entertainment, has arranged an excellent program, for the evening, which will be so arranged that everyone will be enabled to see and hear the entire performance. Dancing and cards will follow the dinner and program.

Denied Gravy, Irate Girl Planks Steak In Host's Eye

DETROIT, May 16.—Miss Hazel Chapman admitted she is quite a tolerant young lady, except in the matter of steak without gravy. And Michael Sarkeridan's black eye is fine testimony of Miss Chapman's strong feelings in the matter.

Miss Chapman came to Michael's restaurant at 3 a. m., demanding steak and gravy. Michael brought forth a fine steak.

"Where," said Miss Chapman, with lifted eye brows, "is the gravy?"

Michael was apologetic. The gravy department, he explained, closed at midnight. There could be no gravy. Whereupon Miss Chapman hurled the steak full into Michael's face, following with a few swift rights and lefts. Chairs were overturned, Michael yelled, and a policeman came. Miss Chapman went to jail.

"Nothing makes me madder," Miss Chapman told the judge as she paid a $25 fine, "than to order steak and gravy and get nothing but steak."

Meanwhile Michael wears a beef-steak poultice on his damaged eye.

SCIENTISTS SEEK INDIAN RELICS

LANCASTER, Pa., May 16.—Noted scientists are conducting a research program in the Safe Harbor river district in an effort to remove all rocks bearing the writings of Indians.

Plaster casts will be made before the rocks themselves are drilled out. The scientists wish to remove all the valuable picture rocks before construction of the proposed Safe Harbor power dam effaces them.

The picture-writing, which is unlike the ordinary Indian writings, bears a resemblance to the Asiatic alphabet. No code has been found to the meaning.

Nearly 50 public pawnshops the now being conducted by Japan.

Remembers Indian Village In Chicago

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, Ill., May 16.—Leon Klein, pioneer Chicagoan, who recently celebrated his eightieth birthday, remembers when an Indian village occupied the site where the Merchandise Mart, world's largest building, now stands.

"The Indians had a row of shacks there, but we weren't allowed to play with the Indian children," he said. "I was ten years old when Lincoln was nominated for President in the Wigwam on the Lake front. We saw Lincoln lying in state in the old city hall, and his rival, Stephen A. Douglas, when he was paid a similar honor at the time of his death."

The Parent Problem

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

Simple Amusements Please Child Confined To House By Sickness

"What shall I do?" the mother of the child from three to eight or ten years over and over. Once he can read alone with pleasure the question disappears.

For the past several days my youngest lad, now seven, has been confined to the house with a slight cold. Different members of the family have played dominoes and flinch with him, and he has had stories read for hours and hours.

A child at this age must be busy always. He knows no such thing as doing nothing. He was engaged most of one day doing stunts his sister had taught him—from her lessons in general science. For instance, I saw him playing one whole afternoon with a piece of rubber hose and two milk bottles, siphoning water from one into another. Among the things which pleased him most was to set both bottles on the same level, with one empty and the other filled, or with one filled higher than the other, watching the water in one bottle reach the level of the water of the other bottle.

For a few cents enough rubber hose can be bought to afford a vast amount of valuable amusement.

Another means by which he has amused himself is the magic float. He fills a large narrow topped bottle with water and inserts a piece of glass tubing into the water. Then by pressing on the cork or releasing it he can cause the float to move up or down or stop when and where he chooses. It is a world of fun for children and they can perform the experiment all alone.

Somewhere he learned also that an egg would float in strong salt water. For a long while he marvelled at this seeming magic.

He spent most of yesterday in the basement making a derrick from a few pieces of plank and some discarded parts of a mechano set once enjoyed by his older brother. Spools he used for pulleys, made a crank by bending in the vise a wire nail at two angles, and with a few screws and bolts, nails and some cord, he worked out an ingenious device with which he worked and played for hours. He attached a small magnet to the lifting rope and with his derrick lifted and shifted paper clips and other metal things, from one position to another. All forenoon today he worked making a great deal for him by encouraging him to make similar things and to create all sorts of toys and interesting objects from discarded card-board boxes, with the aid of scissors, paste, glue and paper clips. Don't throw away any such valuable materials where there are young children. Out of them can be created all sorts of interesting things.

I shall be glad to answer, in these columns, questions addressed to me in care of this paper, provided these questions seem to be of general interest.

If you have a question you would like to have answered personally write me enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Noted Folk Get Glad Hand In Hollywood

(International News Service) HOLLYWOOD, Cal., May 16.—The glad hand championship goes to Hollywood. No community in the world is capable of staging the same amount of hip-hip-hurrah for incoming notables.

Arriving celebrities in the film village are met with everything from brass bands to patrol wagons—prop patrols, of course—and everyone is always on hand when the train pulls in to cheer lustily and make the arrival feel as important as the champion egg layer with henfruit two dollars a dozen.

When Buddy DeSylva, Lew Brown and Ray Henderson, the million dollar popular song writing combine, reached Hollywood a few weeks ago to devote their genius to making screen musical comedies, the reception accorded them reached the peak of something or other.

A complete scenario had been written and the large cast of players well rehearsed. As the train bearing the "three musketeers of jazz" stopped, a green carpet unrolled to the car steps, while a 20-piece band began playing "Sunny Side Up." "If I Had a Talking Picture of You," and other B-D-S hits.

Keys to Hollywood, Santa Monica, and Malibu Beach were presented by Joe Brown, Marjorie White, and El Brendel, news cameramen ground madly, three nurses rushed up with wheel chairs and bore the song writers to their automobiles.

When Walter Catlett, bespectacled Broadway comedy ace, arrived, a number of his friends, dressed in police uniforms, grasped him with firm hands and gave him the "bum's rush" to a police patrol waiting at the curb. And in the patrol he was escorted to his hotel.

Fox studios has an official "greeting." Jack Francis, former New York reporter, whose principal duties are those of presiding his familiar face to the train whenever a player, sign, or in New York, arrives in California. Francis, who was known as "the night watchman of Broadway," and who is reputed to be the only man who knows what happens to chorus girls when they die, makes all arrangements. He sees to it that a bouquet is handed the fair young stranger, if it is feminine, he whisks her into a waiting car, drives to her hotel where she finds her room banked with flowers, and then takes her on a tour of the studios, introducing everyone and making her feel very much at home.

A cameraman is always on the station platform grinding away, to make the newcomer feel important. When George O'Brien returned from a trip to Europe to appear in a series of outdoor screen romances in which he does some daring horse-back riding, his friends greeted him at the train with a huge white, swaying-back horse whose spinal column resembled the curve of a rocker.

Beatrice Lillie, celebrated English comedienne, arrived on a cold blustery day, and she was the only one in the crowd at the station not wrapped up in heavy clothing. Miss Lillie stepped into the fog and drizzle in a bright, thin, California sport outfit.

"This high fog may be too low to permit our getting umbrellas up under it, but it's a high fog just the same," she was told. "And we Californians feel that it is very unusual."

Prayer. In Congress

The chaplain, Rev. ZeBarney T. Phillips, D. D., offered the following prayer:

Eternal Father, who renewest the face of the earth with Thy breath, so gentle and potent, reviving for us in the springtime the grace and beauty that had fled, make us to partake of other things than those made known to eyes of sense—messages of splendor, baffling and alluring, revealed through the soul's east window of divine surprise. Give us this day a larger charity, a deeper self-knowledge, a growing sense of moral acquisition that can only come through high endeavor for the better, purer things of life.

Pity and pardon us for what we have missed and might have attained, strengthen our weakness, arm us with trust in Thy mercy which fails not, in Thy patience which waits without weariness, that we may press forward toward the mark of our high calling which is in Christ Jesus our Lord. Amen.

FOR

Representative In the General Assembly

SECOND DISTRICT OUTSIDE OF NEW CASTLE

BECAUSE:

He is the only ex-soldier in the race for this office, having served nine months on the battle fronts in France, and stands four-square for his disabled buddies.

We believe it is now time for the professional politician to give the ex-soldier generation a chance to have a voice in public affairs.

Merely because a man served his country is not sufficient reason for elevating him to public office, but all other things being equal, the ex-service man deserves an opportunity to have a voice in his government.

This candidate stands for lower taxes by equalized assessed valuation.

His road program is to connect existing paved highways by paving the cross roads to get the greatest number of people out of the mud.

His family has been in Lawrence county for over 125 years and he has lived in Ellwood City since the town was founded in 1894. He is a high school and college graduate, an athlete and sportsman and stands for protection, propagation and distribution of fish and game in Pennsylvania.

Mr. Cartwright is a hardware merchant in Ellwood City and the father of seven children. He is an active member of the American Legion, the Chamber of Commerce, the Kiwanis Club and active in all civic and public affairs.

Environment Blamed For Wayward Youths By Boys' Court Judge

By FRANK J. CIPRIANI
Central Press Staff Writer

CHICAGO, May 16.—His title is judge, and he sits in a little courtroom high above the city's pulsating streets and listens attentively, understandingly to the daily routine of tragic stories whispered to him over the bench.

Outside of court or in, however, his title is not alone judge; it is "friend of the boy."

Ho the errant boyhood of this metropolis, Judge Francis B. Allegretti is friend, counselor, and confessor who aids, advises and guides; who rewards, who punishes, who tempers his judicial acts with kindness—intelligent kindness—not maudlin.

30,000 Boys

Judge Allegretti presides in the boys' court. In four years 30,000 boys have passed before him.

"Alarmists and pessimists see no hope for the modern boy," says Judge Allegretti. "Generally the only hope they can see for anything is the worst. But certainly the boy of today is not hopeless. On the contrary, he is our hope of tomorrow. The boy of this generation is, in himself, no different from boys of 100 years ago. His surroundings, however, are different."

Here is a list of some of the reasons why boys go wrong, according to the judge:

1. Lack of fundamental religion.
2. Lack of family harmony.
3. Improper outside environment.
4. Disobedience.
5. Lack of respect for older people.
6. Too much freedom.
7. Too much temptation.
8. Disinterest of parents.
9. Laziness.
10. Prohibition.

"Boys should abide by some religion," advises Judge Allegretti. "He will find in the Ten Commandments, for instance, all the laws of the world. But it seems that boys are losing religion. Is it their fault? No, their parents'."

"The broken home is, however, the basic trouble in cases where boys commit offenses against the law. No boy can grow decently amid domestic surroundings that violate the spirit of the home, for the home is the well-spring of human life. That applies not only to the home broken by separation of divorce, but the home where the parents continue to live together without mutual love. The environment is damaging to the boy, and leads to worse environments outside with dangerous companions."

Disobedience
"I have discovered boys brought in to court are generally disobedient. Many people mistake disobedience for independence. It is not. Show me a boy who does not mind, and I'll show you negligent parents. Too much freedom, too much temptation go hand in hand. Laziness belongs in somewhat the same category. The lazy boy is more easily tempted, and the lazy boy has too much freedom—because he wants freedom.

"Sometimes, of course, it is not altogether the parents' fault and many times, despite what they do, the boy errs. In such cases, sound application of the rod might effect a cure—in other words, good old-fashioned thrashings."

Fat Man Ensnarled In Voting Machine

(International News Service)

GENEVA, N. Y., May 16.—Since those new fangled voting machines have been in existence, there is an added qualification for voters. The qualification is simple: you mustn't be too fat.

This city learned of this qualification recently. The occasion was afforded when a man weighing 400 pounds entered a booth to cast his vote in an election machine. Something went wrong and the obese gentleman couldn't extricate himself from the machine. As you may have concluded the police were called and after the machine was entirely wrecked, the man was freed. The next day two things happened: voting was continued by ballot system and the fat man probably came to the conclusion that he didn't have all the qualifications for voting with a machine.

Crude Oil Prices Decreased 25 Cents

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, May 16.—A further price recession of 25¢ per barrel in all grades of Pennsylvania crude oil announced today by the South Penn Oil Company brought crude oil prices to the lowest level since 1921.

Pennsylvania grade was down from $2.55 to $2.30 per barrel. Pennsylvania Grade Southwest Pipe Line down to $2.25; Eureka Pipe Line at $2.13, and Buckeye Pipe Line at $1.85. Quotations were eliminated on Bradford Grade, Pennsylvania crude.

Keep Away From Bull, Warning

LOGAN, Utah, May 16.—Reports of dairy bulls suddenly becoming enraged and killing their owners caused Prof. George B. Caine of the Utah State Agricultural college to prepare instructions for the safety of farmers and dairymen.

The surest way of preventing bulls from killing people, he declares, is to build a strong fence or inclosure, with shed, watering trough and feeding stall inside, to keep the bull in at all times. Breeding chutes should be provided, in order that the attendant never come in contact with the animal.

No bull should be handled without a strong staff, Caine said, and even that is not enough for the larger dairy bull is too powerful.

His general warning is to keep away from the bull at all times, regardless of how gentle the animal may seem.

Three Are Killed In Mine Mishap

Terrific Gas Explosion At Avela Partially Wrecks
Mine

FOUR HUNDRED MEN ESCAPE

(International News Service)
AVELLA, Pa., May 16.—Three men are dead and five other mine workers are injured, one critically, today, following a terrific gas explosion and fire that partially wrecked the workings of the Avela Mine of the Pottsville Coal and Coke company here late yesterday.

John Cepres, 19, a loader; Thomas Williams, 50, Negro, loader, and Clement Manley, 25, a cutter, were killed instantly when the blast let go.

The injured:
Andrew Kustic, 19, loader (serious).
John Lang, 33, cutter.
Joseph Kasharich, 24, motorman.
Luther Henley, 40, Negro loader.
Paul Bosseau, 19, loader.

All the injured suffered burns when a searing sheet of flame roared through the colliery in the wake of the blast.

The low death toll was due to the fact that the explosion barred only the entrance to section No. 17 of the mine. Twenty-five men were at work in this section and with the exception of the dead and injured all were brought to the surface in safety.

Four hundred men were scattered throughout the various sections in the mine but all walked quietly out, organized themselves into rescue gangs and began the task of getting the trapped in section No. 17 to the surface.

Officials of the mine planned to resume operations this afternoon. A crew of men this morning had nearly completed the work of clearing away debris and wreckage left by the blast. Although there were several ver-

Fine Pine Oil Aids "Jakeitis" Victims

(International News Service)
HATTIESBURG, Miss., May 16.—While the best heads in medical science have been trying for many weeks to reveal some panacea for sufferers of "Jakeitis," several victims hereabouts have found solace by drinking oil obtained from pine tree stumps.

The oil, which has been chemically treated, has brought relief to many afflicted with Jamaica ginger paralysis, neuritis, arthritis and rheumatism according to the patients.

Fewer Calls For Charitable Aid

Considerably fewer calls for food and clothing have been received by the Associated Charities, East street, during the past three or four weeks. When the summer weather comes along, there are always fewer people in need of charity, but the drop is so much more in proportion, that it is taken by those in charge of the Associated Charities, to be a sign of work being more plentiful.

Airplane Changes Admiral's Policies On Warfare Plans

Senate Naval Affairs Committee Hears From Admiral Pratt

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, May 16.—Development of the airplane as an implement of war has changed considerably Admiral William V. Pratt's opinion as to how the government's fighting forces should be arranged, he told the Senate Naval Affairs committee today.

"Where the air forces will be there should be no submarines," he testified after he declined to answer publicly a question by Senator Hale (R) Maine, "if it were the policy of the United States to give up submarines."

Pratt, commander-in-chief of the U. S. Fleet and the chief adviser of the American delegation at London, remarked there were many questions he would like to explain in detail if the hearing were held in private session.

"I could explain if I could tell you whether the fight will take place," he added, and Senator Shortridge (R) California, agreed with him.

Hale is conducting a hearing on the technical aspects of the treaty, independent of the one being held simultaneously by the foreign relations committee.

It is believed that the president will sign the bill for new fishery stations. —The Omaha World-Herald.

Follow Through On Health Drive

HARRISBURG, May 16.—D. V. Ness, chief nuisance officer of the State Health Department, said today that more than 250 health officers are now engaged in an intensive clean-up campaign throughout Pennsylvania. More than a thousand sanitary officers in boroughs and municipalities are also following up the activities carried on by individuals during the recent clean-up campaign which was sponsored recently by the Departments of Health, Welfare, Forests and Waters and state police.

"The survey indicates that a very general response has resulted from the requests made by the state departments for the development of individual concern as to sanitary conditions both in and outside of homes and barns," Ness said. "Each year more and more people apparently are realizing the preventive power in general sanitation and the removal of germ and insect-disease carrying

Rains Will Help Strawberry Crop

The rain of the last two days is being welcomed by strawberry growers over the county who state that with the number of blossoms on their vines, sufficient rain will yield a big crop.

The strawberry crop was a flop in 1929 with a good crop in 1928. The growers are confident that if they get any kind of a weather break this spring, the crop will be even larger than that of 1928.

"Brass Tacks" On The Sunday School Lesson

The Golden Text

"Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind. This is the first and great commandment. And the second is like unto it, Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself."—Matthew 22:37-39.

By ALVIN E. BELL

The deadly hostility of our Lord's enemies and the severity of His denunciation of them have risen to white heat in these incidents of His teaching in the temple on the Tuesday of His last week. How hot things were is indicated by the pointed parable of the marriage feast with which our lesson opens and His series of seven "Woes" against Phariseism and its hypocrisy with which the lesson closes. This severe denunciation nettled very group of Jesus' enemies to "take council how they might entangle Him in His talk." Out of this council grew 3 distinct assaults upon Him in the form of carefully worded trick questions, any one of which they hoped might get Him.

The Political Question

The first question fired at Christ by His enemies is a political question, and that the most explosive question of the day, "Is it lawful to give tribute unto Caesar or not?" Couched as it was in a lot of flattery, they hoped to flatter Him into blindness that would overlook their trap, which they fancied was "foolproof," and bound to entrap and discredit Him no matter how He answered. If He should answer "Yes," He would at once alienate the people who hated Rome and its oppressive tribute system. If He should answer "No," He would bring upon Himself the condemnation of Rome as an incendiary and seditionist. But Jesus saw the trap and entrapped them by asking, "Why tempt ye me, ye hypocrites? Show me the tribute money." And instantly every one of them reached for his purse and produced the money they were using daily from Caesar's mint. Therefore His answer, "Render unto Caesar the things which are Caesar's; and unto God the things that are God's." It was in no sense an evasion of their question. But it went to the heart of the issue involved, viz., if you accept the blessings of a government, you must accept its obligations, too.

The Doctrinal Question

Their second question was a doctrinal one asked by the Sadducees, who were the sceptics of that day in their denial of the resurrection. They sought to ridicule the doctrine of the resurrection with a ridiculous hypothetical question about a woman married successively to seven brothers. "In the resurrection, whose wife shall she be of the seven?" Jesus answered by showing them their ignorance of their own scriptures, for "in the resurrection they neither marry nor are given in marriage, but are as the angels of God in heaven."

The Legal Question

Then followed the legal question, "Which is the great commandment of the law?" Instead of Jesus answering by picking out a greatest one, if the hundreds of commands into which they had multiplied the ten commandments He selected the one that embraced them all, viz., supreme love to God and to one's neighbor as to self.

The Leading Question

After they exhausted their ingenuity in trick questions Jesus fired at them the one leading question, "What think ye of Christ? Whose son is He?" When their answer "the son of David" indicated only the inadequate view of a human Christ He referred them to David's own prophecy of Christ's lordship and showed how He must be divine as well as human, "David's Lord" as well as "David's Son." What do we think of Christ? That is still the leading question.

(The International Uniform Lesson for May 18 is Matt. 22:15-22, 34-40, the subject being "Jesus Teaching in the Temple," and the Golden Text, "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind. This is the first and great commandment. And a second like unto it is this, Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself." Matt. 22:37-39.)

Large Gain In Circulation At Public Library

Librarian Reports Gain Of 22
Per Cent Of April, 1930,
Over April, 1929

Miss Alice Sterling, librarian of the public library, states in her report of the month of April, that the circulation during that period was marked by a gain of 22 per cent of the circulation during the same month last year. The adult circulation of books made a gain of 20 per cent and the juvenile book circulation made a gain of 24 per cent. The daily average circulation is 789 and the branch circulation is 50 per cent of the total.

The weekly story hour and the Easter stories told by Miss Alice Joyce at the branches attracted 445 children. April closed the story hour season, Miss Sterling reports.

BOSTON, Mass., May 16.—The recent ratification by the United States of an international convention designed to secure religious liberty for native Africans under European governments, is of peculiar significance to the American board of commissioners for foreign missions of this city, according to Rev. Ernest W. Riggs, who with representatives of various other foreign boards, presented the petition of the board to the senate for ratification. The board governs important missionary work in Africa.

"This treaty, which ratifies the general act of Berlin and the general act and declaration of Brussels, has been called the Magna Charta of religious liberty in Africa, and is the first and only document giving a basis for diplomatic understanding between the United States and Portugal, with regard to religious liberty for the natives of Portuguese colonies in Africa," according to Mr. Riggs. "It is the third treaty ratified recently by the United States which guarantees the welfare of the African peoples. The slavery convention and the liquor traffic convention were both ratified in the spring of 1929 by the United States and thus identify our government with international agreements."

The American board, the oldest foreign missionary society in this country, represents primarily the Congregational and Christian church in its overseas work. It has in Africa 19 stations and 469 out-stations, serving a population of well over a million. There are 111 missionaries and 10 associate missionaries working with a total of 2,221 native leaders. Of the 36 organized native Christian churches, 17 are self supporting, and this same African church has a constituency of 97,582. There are four training schools, 13 secondary schools, 366 primary schools and five kindergartens, with 22,182 pupils. Two hospitals and 13 dispensaries last year reported treatments totaling 92,743.

(International News Service)
MONTEREY, Cal., May 16.—More than $100,000 will be spent by the government during the next year for improvements at the Presidio of Monterey, it has been announced by Colonel Robert Fitch, the commandant. Army officers stationed here received with satisfaction the news that $25,000 is to be spent on the extension of natural gas mains to the garrison so that wood and coal stoves and open fireplaces, now used for cooking, may be discarded for modern equipment. Barracks are to be extended. Colonel Fitch said, and improvements are to be made in the site of the Citizens Military Training Camp.

The Presidio of Monterey, which has been a military post since 1770, comprises 15,000 acres, and is the largest military field in America.

IN ONE MONTH KONJOLA WON FINE VICTORY

After All Else Tried Had Failed
This New Medicine Proved Its Outstanding Merit.

MR. ANDREW C. HOMISTEK

"It is a pleasure for me to tell of my experience with Konjola," said Mr. Andrew C. Homistek, 119 South Main Street, Masontown, Pa. "Two years ago, my troubles began with stomach and bowel disorders. I suffered from cramping spells, gas formation and indigestion every time I ate. Constipation added to my distress and I became weak and rundown in general."

"My wife persuaded me to give Konjola a trial. Well, in just one month, Konjola did wonders for me. It restored my digestion and ended constipation. No more cramps, gas bloating or pains, no matter what I eat. I have regained my strength and energy. My wife and I recommend Konjola to every one."

It is the same splendid story of success and Konjola welcomes the most severe tests in cases of stomach, liver, kidney and bowel troubles and of rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness.

Konjola is sold by Love & McGown, The Druggists, 204 E. Washington St., this city.

RARE DISEASE KILLS WOMAN IN TORONTO
TORONTO, Ont., May 16.—A rare disease, of which only 52 cases have been reported throughout the world since 1922, has claimed the life of a Toronto woman who died after an illness of three days.

Similar to "trench mouth," which afflicted many soldiers in the World War, the disease known as "noma," was discovered in a woman who called upon a surgeon for treatment for a throat affliction. The surgeon sent her to a hospital where an operation failed to check the disease.

Two Women Beaten In Night Club As Bandits Make Raid

Night Club In San Francisco Raided By Thugs; Women Try To Interfere

(International News Service)
SAN FRANCISCO, May 16.—Two women were beaten, a shot was fired at a man who sought to interfere and twenty men and women were robbed by two bandits who raided an exclusive "Studio Night Club" here early today.

When she sought to remonstrate with the bandits, Miss Jean Carroll, one of the proprietors, was knocked down with the butt of a gun. Another blow from a gun butt sent Miss Frances McKenzie to the floor. She, too, sought to prevent the robbery.

Coming into the room from the kitchen, Mervin Cowen, an importer, made a dive for the bandits but stopped abruptly when a shot blazed by his head.

After the guests were forced to throw their money on a table, the bandits scooped it up and fled.

(Special to the News)
NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., May 16.—Miss Ruth Lewis, New Castle, queen of the May at Westminster College last year, will pass on the crown to Miss Margaret Crooks, Brookline, Mass., at the annual pageant to be held on the football field Saturday afternoon, May 24.

Miss Lewis, who will play the part of Vision in the pageant written by the class in pageantry, will give Miss Crooks, playing the part of Science, the diadem symbolic of queenship as the high spot in the outdoor spectacle which will include 200 people.

Miss Lewis, a star in dramatics, has been active in class athletics, society, and general student activities for four years.

The teachers of the city turned themselves a rather tasty party last night up in the Washington Junior high school. It was one time when they could get together and forget about class rooms and recitations, study periods and preparations, and blow themselves. They did.

Here's one on my good friend Albert Harbison that is worth repeating. Mr. Harbison is a member of the New Castle Motor Club and a good one. Not satisfied with being a member he has signed up a lot of friends and recently approached one of them to join.

"I'm a bit short at the time," said the friend, "thinking he might pass it off in that way, but a couple of months from now, see me again."

In a day or so the gentleman received a membership card in the club paid up, the explanation being that Mr. Harbison thought he was cheating himself by not belonging and felt that he could let the friend owe him ten for a month or two.

PAINT STORE PAINT

Our store is now nine years old, we are absolutely an exclusive paint and glass store, independently owned, handling a quality line of paint, varnish, brushes, ladders and glass and capable with 25 years experience of serving you on any paint problem.

For outside painting we believe first in strictly pure lead and zinc paint or Dutch Boy White Lead and oil, in addition we believe that cheap paint per gallon is a myth, principally used by unscrupulous manufacturers to tell you how much you can save on your paint bill. They sometimes tell you that their paint is sold direct, stores cannot handle their paint "Heaven forbid us" save the dealers profits and pay the agent 25%, our good competitors in this city know that none of our local paint dealers average 25% on house paint and on white lead the profit is very much smaller indeed, so why not treat yourself to the best and know what you buy. Ten to one you know automobile and radio values. Examine the color card, look for the formula on the can, if it is not there beware! How much does one gallon cover two coats, do you want a long or short gallon. Insist on Buick and Cadillac quality house paint and let the other fellow save the price per each gallon—Check and Double Check.

Fair Directors Plan Improvements

Meeting Last Night To Discuss Plans For This Year's Fair

Ten directors of the New Castle Fair association met in the association office on South Croton avenue, Thursday evening, to decide upon some important steps to be taken in preparation for the New Castle Fair, scheduled to take place August 5, 6 and 7.

Many improvements will be made at the fair grounds and the directors are confident that this year's fair will be of much greater interest than any in the history of the association.

The directors decided last night, to do some extensive painting at the fair ground Harlansburg road. The grandstand will be painted, the Red Cross building, ticket office and fences. The Red Cross building will probably be moved from where it now stands at the entrance, several hundred yards away. The ticket office will be moved to the present location of the Red Cross building.

At last night's meeting it was decided to have rows of flowers planted in the strip of ground in the center of the race track, and some gardening work done at the entrance to the fair grounds.

Already, the new entrance to the grounds has been constructed. There are four cement pillars erected, upon which large boxes of flowers will be placed. Automobiles will enter the grounds through the middle pillars and pedestrians will enter through the two outer posts.

Many other important matters were also discussed at the meeting. Directors who were present are J. S. Crowl, W. B. Rodgers, Thomas McNeese, A. E. McCreary, G. J. Forrest, R. B. Stiner, A. H. Fullerton, F. P. Forbes, J. E. Ellison and T. J. McCullough. There are fifteen directors in all. Those unable to be present are J. L. Burton, J. A. Bank, L. M. Reed, J. W. Hartwell and W. H. Atkinson.

Stimson Defends Treaty On "Radio" Fighting City Manager Chosen By Cincinnati

Secretary Stimson Talks To Children Of World Via Radio On Thursday

SEES SUCCESS OF MOVE FOR PEACE

(International News Service) WASHINGTON, May 16.—From the diplomatic reception room in the State Department Thursday, Secretary of State Stimson declared in a radio address the London naval treaty was a long step toward peace and expressed the hope "that with the help and support of the rising generation we may finally arrive at the goal of general disarmament and peace."

The occasion was the closing of the spring session of the American school of the air, the program being broadcast over the Columbia network.

Among those who participated in the program, addressed to school children throughout the world, were Secretary of the Interior Wilbur, Chinese Minister C. C. Wu, and Dr. L. S. Rowe, director general of the Pan American Union. The United States Marine band gave a concert as part of the program.

Stimson sketched the purposes of the naval conference and said:

"I feel confident that in your time and with your help the great movement toward international peace, in which the London conference was an important step, will be successfully completed."

C.A. DYKSTRA

By Central Press

CINCINNATI, O., May 16.—A never surrender fighter for political ideals is the description which Cincinnati applies to its newly appointed $25,000-a-year city manager, Clarence Addison Dykstra. More recently of Los Angeles, he began his municipal research (and battles) in Cleveland.

With great energy and industry, he has dived into municipal problems in the past, come what may, yet, without, retained the respect of the opposition.

In his early fifties, Dykstra was born in Cleveland. As a young man he became a student of political science, obtaining degrees from the Universities of Iowa and Chicago. He then taught political science at Ohio State university and the University of Kansas. Following which he returned to Cleveland as executive secretary of the Civic League, now the Citizens.

His View of Government

At that time he remarked, "I stand for municipal government based on efficiency and not on politics. I favor non-partisan city government, thoroughly honest and progressive."

Dykstra soon became a powerful figure in Cleveland by making his organization an independent and disinterested civic body. He was one of the committee of 15 which studied the Cleveland charter and advocated the manager plan.

In 1920 he left Cleveland to become secretary of the Chicago City Club. Then returned to his books, in 1923, as instructor at the University of California, Los Angeles branch. At the time of his appointment to succeed Colonel C. O. Sherrill as city manager of Cincinnati he was head of the personnel division of the Los Angeles municipal water and power department.

Colonel Sherrill resigned to become vice president of a large grocery corporation.

Will Inspect All Food Handlers At Shows, Carnivals

HARRISBURG, May 16.—Officials of the Pennsylvania state health department today advised the various health officers throughout the commonwealth regarding the necessity of enforcing the regulations with respect to public eating and drinking places in connection with circuses and carnivals.

"With the open season present," said Howard M. Haines, chief of the section of restaurant hygiene, "and the consequent of carnivals and circuses within the confines of Pennsylvania, the necessity of proper policing, food and drink vendors attached to such establishments arises. Past experience indicates that organizations of this type are prone to be extremely careless regarding these essential factors to health. Local health officers and officials have an ample weapon in the form of the department's regulations to develop the necessary cooperation on the part of such food and drink handlers so that the public may be amply protected."

Drive Auto From Buenos Aires To N. Y.

(International News Service) NEW YORK, May 16.—From Buenos Aires, Argentina, to New York, by auto!

Adam and Andrew Stoessel are receiving congratulations today for this feat. Both of these pioneer autoists departed from Buenos Aires two years ago in a Chevrolet touring car and arrived here the other day, having traversed 19,000 miles.

The Stoessels recorded about 26 miles daily during their long trip but the fact remains that they "made it." Two years is a fairly long time to pilot an automobile but there is plenty of reasons why "his epic making journey was delayed that time, some of which were: almost impassable South American fields; floods; tornadoes; tropical storms; bandits; fevers; difficulty in constructing their own roads; and the trek over the Andes ranges.

So it is evident, too, why the Stoessels considered a mile a day an accomplishment.

Turk Balks At Paying Wife's Clothing Bills

PARIS, May 16.—Tewfik Pasha, the Grand Old Man of Turkey, sees no reason why he should pay his wife's dressmaking bills and he is contesting payment in Paris civil courts.

Tewfik contends that, according to Turkish customs and laws, Turkish wives are not allowed to pledge the credit of their husbands without authorization. He told the court he was married under the Turkish law, therefore he should not be held responsible for any of his wife's unauthorized bills with Parisian dressmakers.

In this case Tewfik claims that his wife ordered a great number of frocks and gowns from an expensive, exclusive Paris dressmaker without asking the husband's permission. Angry with her, he refuses to pay the bills. The dressmakers have brought the pasha to court to explain why. The court was perplexed and has withheld judgment for a later date.

OH, THESE WOMEN!

By LEOLA ALLARD

Come all ye mourners for lost loves, and gather 'round me: I've just finished reading a dozen letters from people who tell me they loved deeply, sincerely, tenderly. They lost. Now they will never get over it, but will spend the remainder of their days telling people about it and moping in somebody's corner. Some of them will do that, without a doubt, and that is their happiness. The world is full of folks who would rather be martyrs than happy soldiers. It's a privilege for them to keep repeating the story of their disappointment. What does it get them? Not the sympathy they solicit. They are, usually, looking somebody in the back. Not many smiling faces turn toward the love mourner. The thing for him to do is to take a bone and go under the house—away under. After the first time you hear the story of a person like this, your sympathy having been given, you are ready to move on to the next subject. After all there is always a broad smile just around the corner, if you are interested.

People who mourn eternally are a bore. They should have a colony up in the mountains away from people who accept life as it is. The sad part of it is that they could come out of it and they won't. They are not mentally "touched." They are mentally lazy. It's an effort to jar loose from their woe.

Among the letters I mention is one from a man who loved a girl and lost her. You'd think no one else ever had that experience. As a matter of fact almost everybody has. The best remedy is to look around at the neighbors you haven't been noticing before. You will always find one right alongside, who hasn't been wooing but who has MORE trouble than you have. I was told that, I tried it and it was true. If then you don't feel ashamed and determined to turn the next corner into a happier road, you are a GUMPSCHLESS. It's to be a one woman man and a one man woman, but there's no need to be fanatical about it. (If I'm wrong write me, 235 East 45th St., N. Y. C.)

Adds 6258 Acres To Game Holdings

HARRISBURG, May 16.—The Game Commission has added a tract of 6258 acres of forest land in Dunbar township, Fayette county, to its holdings. The new tract will be known as State Game Lands No. 51. Acquisition of the tract brought the total acreage of Game Commission land to 173,188.

For the present the entire tract will be open to public hunting. When conditions permit, one-third of the tract will be made a refuge for the propagation of game and the remainder will be kept for public hunting.

Local Police Aid In Teletype Work

HARRISBURG, May 16.—Co-operation of local police forces in all sections of the State is making the teletype system an arm of constantly increasing importance in the apprehension of criminals, according to Major C. M. Wilhelm, deputy superintendent of the State Police.

Major Wilhelm believes that the quick action possible with the teletype system will prove invaluable in recovering stolen automobiles before they can be driven from the State borders. In one recent instance a stolen automobile was recovered fifteen minutes after a description of it had been broadcast on the teletype system.

When BABIES are upset

Baby ills and ailments seem twice as serious at night. A sudden cry may mean colic. Or a sudden attack of diarrhea—a condition it is always important to check quickly. How would you meet this emergency—tonight? Have you a bottle of Castoria ready? There is nothing that can take the place of this harmless but effective remedy for children; nothing that acts quite the same, or has quite the same comforting effect on them.

For the protection of your wee one—for your own peace of mind—keep this old, reliable preparation always on hand. But don't keep it just for emergencies; let it be an everyday aid. Its gentle influence will ease and soothe the infant who cannot sleep. Its mild regulation will help an older child whose tongue is coated because of sluggish bowels. All druggists have Castoria; the genuine bear Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the wrapper.

OTHER NEWS NOTES OF MERCER COUNTY

MERCER, Pa., May 16.—Report of Dr. H. A. Milo of the bureau of animal husbandry of the tuberculosis test of Mercer county cattle develops two interesting features: the cattle population has increased since the last test in 1927 by 4,666 head making the present total 37,360, the number of cattle found infected is two less than the last test when they totaled 192.

There were 4,119 farms visited by the veterinarians in their tour over the county. Infected cattle were found on 73 farms.

To the cattle population announced above should be added 800 head owned by dairymen who have their herds tested each year. It was found that the major portion of the infected cattle came from Ohio where the areas are not tested as in this state.

The status of the country as an accredited area will be announced from Harrisburg.

Both Dr. Milo and Farm Agent W. S. Hagan are confident that if the county does not qualify in this test that it will when the 60 day re-test is taken of the farms where infected cattle were found.

ASK NEW TRIAL

Listed for hearing at the court session of June 2 is the plea of attorneys asking a new trial for Frank Pantaleo, convicted for the murder of Bruno Cangemi at No. 5 Mine on New Years eve. Pantaleo was found guilty of first degree murder by jury verdict.

400 TO ENTER HIGH SCHOOL

As a result of the entrance exams held in 13 county high schools last Saturday there will be 490 students matriculate next fall from the rural schools of the county. The percentage of students that are passing the test is very high. It is made known today at the office of the school superintendent. To date five schools have made a complete return to the office showing that 94 out of 123 students had passed. The schools making returns are: Transfer, Sandy Lake, Sharpville, Stoneboro and Sheakleyville.

HEAR CONSTABLE CASES

The court session of June 2 is certain to be of the most interesting character for not only three Mercer county constables but the county residents as well. On this date the court has set a time for the hearing of answer to the petitions of District Attorney Leo McKay asking the dismissal of Constables William Douglass of Clarksville, Tony Morocco of Farrell and Frank Brennen of Sharon against whom the prosecutor files complaints. Douglass is alleged to have been found listed on the books of the Saxon club of Farrell; Morocco's name was also found on the confiscated books of this club; Brennen is alleged to have been in the Irish-American club of Farrell when the police raided that place and found liquor.

FIND ALIEN VETERANS

The present census taking is developing a lot of interesting features in Mercer county. Among the aliens that are being listed as county residents are many veterans of the armies of the central and allied powers that fought in the World war. Soldiers of the armies of the Kaiser, Austria and Great Britain have been listed already. The veterans have come to America since the war and intend making the county their home, they tell the census takers.

The rain of the last two days is being welcomed by strawberry growers over the county, who state that with the number of blossoms on their

If You Have Bad Feet

Read What This Grateful English Woman Writes About Radox

"Fifteen years ago I began to suffer with bad feet and corns, and as time went on they got from bad to worse, thus making life a misery. I was recommended to try Radox (after spending a small fortune in one 'cure' or another). I found very great relief in a very short time. I am pleased to say that my corns, also the hard skin from the soles of my feet have disappeared, and walking, which was a torture, is now a pleasure. I can assure you that I recommended Radox to all my friends."

Mrs. L. P. W.

Peterborough, England.

23rd September, 1929.

When you put your feet into a footbath containing Radox, the salts soften the hard outer layers of the corn, and the oxygen which Radox liberates enters the pores, opens them and penetrates further and further, carrying the corn-softening salts right into the root of the corn, which is thus loosened so that it can be lifted out bodily.

Get a generous box of Radox at Eckerd's of New Castle, Inc. or any drugstore in America—a 15 minute bath three or four successive nights will rid you of corns and callouses.

with sufficient rain we will have a big crop.

The strawberry crop was a flop in 1929, with a good crop in 1928. The growers are confident that if they get any kind of a weather break this spring that the crop will be even larger than that of 1928.

Soviet Taking Literary Census

International News Service

MOSCOW, May 16.—"Are you literate? Can you read and write?"

"Anti-darkness" brigades of young communists are going from house to house in the red capitol asking that question of housewives, their husbands, servants, janitors and odd-job men.

If they say "no", the brigades write their names and addresses in a book.

In a few days they get a notice to appear at a certain night school at such and such a time where courses in reading and writing for adults is given.

The brigades have the right to challenge anyone for making false answers to questions. If they don't believe persons who profess to be literate, they can ask for proofs. For this purpose they have paper and pencil and elementary readers in their brief cases.

Several of the brigades have been beaten up by persons who claim that it is none of the government's business whether people can read and write.

Modern Bandits Prefer Jazz Music

International News Service

CHICAGO, Ill., May 16.—Modern bandits apparently prefer modern music.

Two holdup men who robbed Morris Stein, member of a jazz orchestra here, took a clarinet and saxophone, but cast aside a 200-year-old violin of considerably more value.

Stein's automobile was taken by the bandits, and, when it was found abandoned later, the violin was still in the car. The more up-to-date instruments were missing.

According to Stein, the violin was made by Guarnerius in 1710. It was taken to London in 1850 and later came into the possession of Stein's mother.

County Federation

Of Women's Clubs

Thinking Internationally

How broad have become the terms that compass the thoughts and plans of the club women of today. The mental stimulus that impregnates the club programs is different from that of yesterday when a directing of women's minds along esthetic ways was the accepted goal of all such organizations.

Today, there emanates from every program: from every conference platform a whirlwind of thoughts that shatters at women's minds, carries them away from self or any thought of esthetic value for self. It carries them into world wide fields where self is lost and a great brotherhood of all mankind looms large to their vision.

Back of this stimulus for world wide thinking of club women is the International Relations Department of the General Federation of Women's Clubs with its local auxiliaries.

It is here that the beautiful ideals of yesterday's women are being wrought into the practical public opinion of today that by tomorrow, through continued effort, will be strong enough to demand justice for all mankind and peace for the whole world—the desire that has been born in the hearts of these women through their closer view of the needs and the rights of other peoples.

Until tomorrow comes with its realization of today's desires women will be busy everywhere doing the things that make for the welfare of human beings.

It is a quiet way the women have of getting under the things that count big for happiness and peace but sometimes the very silence back of their efforts—when they become concerted efforts—becomes a big noise as it rolls along gathering hope and inspiration and reality from the determination of far thinking women.

It is the echo resounding from such quiet efforts of a few women in our city that is announcing the display in the P and O window of 36 treasure chests, filled with gifts by the pupils of our public schools, that will be started in a few days on a "Good-will" mission to the youth of the Philippine Islands—in each chest a letter that, as personal greeting from youth to youth, will open wide a door of friendship.

Mrs. William Cosel, chairman of the Peace Commission, and Mrs. Albert Trexler of the International Relations department of the county federation of clubs first gave impetus to the local movement but called into co-operation representatives from other groups interested in this same good-will movement.

This splendid local cooperation is but an indication of the great groups of women internationally minded who are ready to cooperate in every cause that will help promote peace and good will among all peoples. To serve the world through such demonstrations of good fellowship in a soothing, healing service where open sores have festered for so long is but keeping step in a spiritual way with science in its rapid strides to all parts of the world in the physical healing of the people.

A powerful public opinion is needed to force the right alignment of world affairs to the new way of peace but such is already forming. Many factors will enter into its making and this good-will expression in New Castle staged by the youth of our city and sponsored by many organizations has a telling part in molding local public opinion with a far echo from the Philippines. We have contributed our bit in this way to the remaking of the world through our hands stretched out in friendly gesture to the youth of these Islands.

One good way to make the punishment fit the crime would be to compel the designers of those freak mail addresses to send them only to each other.—The Louisville Times.

Paris Is Having Holdup Epidemic

International News Service

PARIS, May 16.—An epidemic of holdups is now sweeping Paris, but most of the "holdups" are of the fake variety, police investigations reveal.

Bank messengers and other trusted employees have recently fallen victims to robbers in greater number than ever before. The majority of these robberies have been staged, if one may believe the police records.

Paul Prevost, who worked as cashier at the Paris Stock Exchange, is the latest actor of this sort to be unmasked.

Paul at first swore that he had been robbed in his own office of $3,000, but he contradicted himself so glibly that the affair sounded fishy, in spite of his injured face and an other soaked handkerchief that had been stuffed down his throat.

The money was eventually found hidden in a stove in the office, and Prevost pleaded market losses as an excuse for his act.

GIRL CHAINED FOR 17 YEARS

International News Service

VLADIMIR, U. S. S. R., May 16.—For 17 years Peter Semionov, once among the wealthiest men in this district, had kept his daughter chained in a damp cellar.

This tragedy was discovered recently by the police in the town Gorobov, where the Semionovs lived. Both the father and mother were tried by the local court for their crime and expelled from this district, their property being confiscated. The daughter, now 44 years old, was transferred to a sanatorium.

At the age of 27, it appeared, the daughter Clavdia, developed a mental disorder. Ashamed of that, the parents put her on a chain and kept her confined for 17 years.

Now a psychologist says that the movies keep folks sane. Yes, after seeing them he decides it is best to keep sane.—The Albany Evening News.

Survey California's Crop Of Peaches

International News Service

MARYSVILLE, Cal., May 16.—A survey of California's 1930 peach crop has been started with a view to reducing the pack artificially if it appears that more fruit will be harvested than the market can absorb at a profit to growers and canners.

All of the 6,000 cling peach growers in the state will be asked to fill out a questionnaire revealing their acreage and expected tonnage.

According to A. K. Andross, Sutter County grower, an unusual drop of small peaches may eliminate the necessity for artificial limitation. Before the drop started, the peach production this year was estimated more than 18,000,000 cases, while it was not expected that the market could absorb more than 13,000,000 or 14,000,000 cases. The survey will be completed by June 1.

New Directors To Be Named By Local Chamber

Plans Completed For Election Of Six To Fill Vacancies Of Retiring Members

HEAR REPORT ON STATUS OF WATERWAYS

Budget And Finance Committee Of Chamber Of Commerce Also Reports
At Meeting

Plans were completed for the holding of the annual election of directors by the New Castle Chamber of Commerce at the regular meeting of the board of directors in The Castles-ton Friday at noon.

Six new directors are to be elected for a period of three years to succeed the retiring directors, David S. Pyie, Hon. Fred L. Rentz, James M. Smith, Sr., Ira Ramsey, George T. Weingartner and H. L. Gordon.

A very encouraging report was received on the present status of the waterways activities, whereby slack-water navigation for the Beaver, Mahoning and Shenango rivers is being sought. Members of the board of directors were told that omnibus rivers and harbors bill, which is now before congress and which includes the local project, has been passed by the house of representatives and there is every reason to expect that this bill will pass the senate before the adjournment of the present session. This authorizes a preliminary survey of the Beaver, Mahoning and Shenango rivers by the U. S. army board of engineers, the first step in the progress of the project.

An interesting report was received on the attendance of the chamber's delegate to the annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce of the U. S. held in Washington, D. C., April 16 to May 1.

Favorable reports were also received on the chamber's activities along industrial lines, and favorable action on several projects is expected to be announced in the near future.

The budget and finance committee, consisting of Messrs. John H. Lamb, chairman; W. W. Duff, W. J. Offutt, L. G. Genkinger, Thomas W. Dickey,
James M. Smith, Sr., William F.
Moody and P. J. Flaherty, presented a report and recommendations on the budget of the organization for the coming year, which was unanimously approved.

A committee consisting of Hon.
Fred L. Rentz, chairman; L. G. Gen-kinger, P. J. Flaherty, Hon. William H. Gillespie and William F. Moody was appointed to interview some of the officials of the railroads serving this district on matters of benefit to the community.

The meeting was presided over by President William F. Moody, and was attended by the following: L. G. Gen-kinger, John H. Lamb, James K. Love,
William F. Moody, W. J. Offutt, Hon.
Fred L. Rentz, James M. Smith, Sr.,
Thomas W. Dickey, Ira M. Ramsey, H.
L. Gordon and R. J. Tully.

Reformed Church Woman Voted Same Rights As Men

JEANNETTE, Pa., May 16.—Westmoreland Classics of the Reformed church, in annual session in St. John's Reformed church, Larimer, voted in-favorably for union with Protestant churches holding to the Presbyterian system and to grant to women equal rights with the men to hold office in the church.

The favorable action was the outstanding action of the Classical body, following the consideration of certain proposed changes in the constitution and by-laws of the general synod of the Reformed church in the United States.

The Westmoreland Classics is made up of ministers and laymen of the congregations of Westmoreland county and parts of Fayette and Cambria counties.

Auto Guest Killed, Suit For $15,000

BEAVER, Pa., May 16.—Bertram D. and Rosalie L. McMillen, Beaver, have filed a suit against William S. Leard, Brighton township, for $15,000 damages for the death of their son, Edwin W. McMillen.

The statement of the plaintiff in this case is that their son sustained injuries from which he died while riding as a guest in Leard's automobile on September 28, 1929. The accident, it is alleged, occurred on the Broadhead road.

Prisoner Uses Belt To Hang Himself

AMBRIDGE, Pa., May 16.—John Burnell, 86, Leetsdale, hanged himself with his leather belt in a cell at the Leetsdale jail. Burnell lived with his sister, Mrs. Margaret Dunn, Leets-dale, police said. He worked for many years for the Riter-Conley company, but a few years ago was retired on a pension.

Wednesday night he became intoxicated, police said, and chased his sister and other members of the family out of the house. They called the Leetsdale police and had him locked up.

Deserted Village In Butler County

BUTLER, Pa., May 16.—The Consolidated Coal Company, which has completed extensive mining operations in the Argentine district of Butler county, has about 100 vacant houses in the hamlet of Erico. Most of the families have moved to other sections.

The houses, two stories each, are not accessible to any other mines of the company, so it is not practical to move them, officials of the company say. Buildings are being offered as low as $200, with the provision that they must be moved from the company's property.

Over One Hundred Attend Mothers-Daughters Banquet

Mrs. Catherine Charles, City Librarian, Gives Excellent Talk At Meeting

Mrs. Layview, As Oldest Mother Present, Received Handsome Potted Plant

ELLWOOD CITY, May 16.—Over 100 mothers and daughters attended the annual mothers and daughters banquet given Thursday evening in the dining room of the Trinity Lutheran church.

The tables were decorated with potted plants. The men of the church served a delicious menu. The program was capably presented by Miss Herman Fleisher as toastmistress. Mrs. Mellon pronounced the invocation and from then on events moved rapidly and entertainingly from the toast to the mothers by Miss Hermine Muller and toast to the daughters by Mrs. Harry Kestling to the musical solos by the gifted artists, Mrs. Henry Schenck and Miss Mary Blocher, with Mrs. George Atkins at the piano.

Mrs. Blocher, Mrs. Baker and Mrs. Blank had charge of the arrangements and they deserved congratulations for producing one of the most successful banquets in the history of the church. Mrs. Catherine Charles, city librarian, gave the address of the evening and its apt application to the relationships existing between countless mothers and daughters today, deserving printing in its entirety. Her subject was "Books as Stiles" and she said in part:

"The tie between mother and daughter ought to be one of the closest and most beautiful of relationships, but all too often they are divided by misunderstandings. As a girl grows out of childhood, it seems as though a fence springs up between her and her mother. Psychologists tell us that this fence is nature's trick to wean the child from the parent. As soon as she is old enough so that she no longer feels the need of her mother's care and protection, the girl's attitude changes. Instead of an all-wise, all-powerful source of comfort and happiness, her mother becomes just an interfering person with old foggy ideas, if not an actual enemy, to be circumvented when possible and obeyed only when expedient. Home is just a place to eat and sleep with mother as cook and father as provider."

"Mother on her part, is hurt and puzzled. When the children were little they depended upon her for everything, she was the center of the universe, and she can't see why she is no longer important to them. To be sure, she is still a part in a storm and a present help in time of trouble, but it takes a bad storm and a big trouble to bring them to her for counsel and succor and, in ordinary circumstances, mother's help and advice are not wanted. Sometimes it seems to her that the children are heartless and ungrateful, but they are not. They are just thoughtless and self-centered. They accept all that their parents do for them as a matter of course, like the air they breathe, and they are too busy with their own affairs to consider the source of their bounties. Furthermore, they are beginning to think independently. If they did not, if they continued to accept their parents' opinions as gospel the world would be at a standstill. Parents forget this. They say 'When we were young, we did thus and so, and expect their children to do likewise. Many a fence is built of 'thus' and 'so's'."

But the stile must have steps going up from each side if mother and daughter are to reach an understanding. For the daughter's side there are books about her daughter's generation. To matter-of-fact youth they may seem romantic and emotional but they portray life as mother sees it. The girl who really wants to know her mother should read such books as 'The Courtlands of Washington Square' and 'The Smiths' by Janet Fairbanks, 'The Awakening of Helena Ritchie' and 'The Iron Woman' by Margaret Deland, 'Madame Claire' by Susan Ertz and 'A Lantern in Her Hand' by Bess Streeter Aldrich. They will give her some faint idea of what it means to be a mother; of all the hopes and fears and worries that fill a mother's heart, and they may help her to be more tolerant of her mother's opinions.

"And when she reaches the top of the stile perhaps she will meet her mother there and, although that leaves them both on the fence, at any rate they are side by side, as mother and daughter should be."

The police will continue their war on motorists who do not observe these signs, and there will be no redress from the $10 fine imposed on violators.

The present practice is to stop the offender, take the number of his car and give him a warning. Then the numbers are kept on file at the police station and if the same driver is stopped for the same offence again he faces a fine by Burgess Judd Turner. Throwing the car out of gear and slowing up is not sufficient. The car must come to a complete stop.

Women Leaders In India Are Jailed

Another Held By Police For Leading Rebellion And One At Passive Impasse

TEXTILE MILLS TO BE REOPENED

(International News Service)
BOMBAY, May 16.—Women leaders occupied the center of the stage today in the theatre of India's struggle against British rule with one sentenced to a year's imprisonment, another arrested, and a third at a passive impasse with police near Dharasana.

Mrs. Kamaladevi Chattopadhyaya, leading more than one hundred volunteers, was arrested as she attempted to embark on a steamer to proceed to Shiroda and raid salt depots there. She was the second woman to be arrested during the long campaign of civil disobedience instituted by Mahatma M. K. Gandhi.

Mrs. Sarojini Naidu, self-styled "Indian Joan of Arc," poetess, and sister-in-law of Mrs. Chattopadhyaya, was seated with many of her followers on the highway approaching Dharasana contemplating a cordon of police which barred the way to the salt depots she wished to raid.

Poetess Nonplussed
Successor to Gandhi and Abbas Tyabji as a "passive" resistance leader, the poetess was somewhat nonplussed when police who met her and her followers as they came along the dusty road toward Dharasana said they would offer passive resistance.

The superintendent of police, with sixty men armed merely with sticks, and the salt raiders with their leader then began a long period of watching and waiting, pretending to be oblivious of one another's presence.

Mrs. Naidu spent her time writing letters and spinning on her hand spinning wheel. She affirmed she would not go back. The police said she could not go forward.

The impasse continued after hours of sitting, latest reports said.

Mrs. Lakshmi Pathi of Madras was the first woman to be arrested by British Indian officials. She was sentenced to a year of simple imprisonment after leading demonstrators at Vedaranyam.

Colonel Page, commanding troops at Scholapur, decided to reopen the important textile mills there on Saturday. The 7 p. m. curfew law will continue in effect, however.

Inflammatory articles in the type-written sheets of the Bombay congress bulletins caused the government to forbid further publication of the bulletin for two months.

SAYS COMPETENT PILOTS MUST FLY BY INSTRUMENTS

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, May 16.—Any pilot who is not competent to fly by instruments alone has not yet finished his training, according to a report published by the Daniel Guggenheim Fund for the Promotion of Aeronautics on the equipment used in its experiments to solve the problem of fog flying. These experiments were conducted by Lieutenant James H. Doolittle of the United States Army Air Corps and the results were announced by the Fund in October 1929.

Reference has been made to Doolittle's flight as a stunt and one not readily emulated by a pilot with less training," the report says. "Admittedly, fog landing at this stage is something of a stunt, but can be done by any pilot of average ability with a few hours' practice. It is necessary only that he should have complete reliance on his instruments and the ability to use them."

The Fund publishes the pamphlet so that details of methods and instruments utilized in these experiments may be available to those interested. Suggestions are included in the report for future development with the thought that the principles established may be applied to commercial airways.

"It may appear that the instruments are too complicated and that too much experience is required for their operation. This is not the case, as was actually shown by the Fund's pilot at Mitchell Field. It had been remarked that much of the work done by the Fog Flying Laboratory of the Fund could be accomplished only by an expert pilot. Those in charge immediately countered by saying that a Second Lieutenant, comparatively unfamiliar with the work accomplished in a short time most of the essentials required in the kind of flying that had been done by the Fund's pilot."

"Critics promptly responded that a Second Lieutenant was continually flying and usually was an expert pilot. Thereupon, the Fund's pilot, after a very short indoctrination course, accomplished the same experiment with a high ranking officer of the Army Air Corps, one who was not as active in flying as the lower commissioned personnel. The conclusions are obvious."

The booklet describes in detail the equipment used by Lieutenant Doolittle on September 24 when he took off and landed his airplane by instruments alone. He flew a total distance of about twenty miles and landed at almost exactly the same spot from which he had taken off fifteen minutes earlier, although the cockpit of his plane was completely covered over.

"This flight is in no sense considered the final problem of fog flying but did prove conclusively that an airplane carrying the necessary instruments can land safely on a properly prepared airport, regardless of weather conditions."

The report discusses in details the proper arrangement of instruments in the cockpit to insure the maximum efficiency in their use for flying through fog or under other conditions.

PLAN TO RESTORE HISTORIC STAGE STATION IN WEST

(International News Service)
GRANGER, Wyo., May 16.—Plans to restore and preserve the historic old stage station, the proudest building in this town when it was known as South Bend in 1858 have been announced by J. S. Weppner of the Wyoming State Landmark Commission.

The building, crudely constructed of native rocks, stands near where Ham's Fork and Black's Fork empty into Green river and is in a fairly good state of preservation.

The main hall of the structure will be converted into a museum to serve as a depository of relics of early Wyoming days.

A memorial tablet to the memory of the late Mrs. E. J. Bradley, upon whose husband's property the old building now stands, will adorn the contemplated museum.

Mrs. Bradley has agreed to transfer title to the station and surrounding grounds to the state of Wyoming as a memorial park and as a monument to the pioneers of the West.

CENSUS TAKERS FIND MINIATURE NATIONS LEAGUE

(International News Service)
ROCK SPRINGS, Wyo., May 16.—Persons of forty seven nationalities, speaking fifty one languages or dialects have been found and termed a "miniature world court" by census enumerators in this small western city of approximately 4,000.

Consequently, enumerators have been hindered in their work and forced to hire many interpreters.

An intersection, where several streets run in like spokes of a wheel, is a perfect Tower of Babel, an enumerator said, and the blend of the numerous languages could be termed an entirely new idiom of its town. Like Indians, most of the dialecticians speak with their hands to make themselves understood.

Many of the residents of Rock Springs hail from old Austria or Hungary, nations that were broken up and sub-divided after the World War. One enumerator said he moved down an alley lined with ash barrels and visited ten families. He found that each family was from a different country.

Rock Springs recently originated the annual "international night" ceremony. At the last observance fifty-one languages were presented.

Faculty Shakeup At Western College

DENVER, May 16.—Climaxing several years dissension at Colorado Western State College, six of the faculty have been dismissed: President Richard Aspinwall has submitted his resignation, and another faculty member, discharged last summer has started suit for his 1929 salary.

Details of the shakeup were revealed by H. V. Kepner, president of the board of trustees of the college. A factional row is believed to have precipitated the recent dismissals.

Ladybird Bugs War On Vine Parasites

(International News Service)
EL CENTRO, Cal., May 16.—A large number of ladybird bugs have been imported from northern California into Imperial Valley by B. A. Harrison, County Horticultural Commissioner to destroy the aphids which each year seriously damages cantaloupe vines.

"Pest" Of Jail Faces Deportation

(International News Service)
EL CENTRO, Cal., May 16.—Kong Sai Wu who was locked up because he was a pest who bothered the jailor with incomprehensible questions in Chinese, is now under a more serious charge. Wu was charged with being illegally in the United States and faces deportation to China. That, it turned out, was exactly what Wu, who had no money, had been trying to tell the jailor he wanted done with him.

Dog Leaps Three Stories To Death

(International News Service)
DENVER, Col., May 16.—His desire not to be separated from his master led to the death of Fritz, valuable year old police dog.

A crowded downtown street was horrified to see the dog hurtling through space from a third-story hotel window. His broken and bleeding body sprawled out on the pavement.

Melvin Green, owner of Fritz, locked the dog in his room on the third floor of a downtown hotel. Green tailed, however, to close the window. While Green was on his way down to the lobby, Fritz leaped through the open window to his death.

Atlanta Orders Expense Cuts

(International News Service)
ATLANTA, May 16.—Perhaps it is the present financial crisis in Chicago that has impressed Mayor Ragsdale here that "forewarned is forearmed."

The Mayor recently admonished all city department heads to cut expenses because it appeared that a monetary crisis was impending in the city.

Janitor Laughs At $50,000 Promise Suit

CHICAGO, May 16.—John Shiell, 68, a native of Scotland, chuckled when informed that he had been named defendant in a $50,000 breach of promise suit. Then he laughed out loud.

For Shiell, who once owned an express company, bearing his name, and also a number of rooming houses in various parts of Chicago, claims to be virtually penniless. Selling all his holdings, he purchased an apartment house. Reverses forced him to sell it, and now all he has he says, is a job as janitor in the building he once owned.

The complainant is Mrs. Nellie Wakefield of Wheaton, Ill. "Wants $50,000 does she," says Shiell. "I wish I had it."

Noises of all kinds are being gradually tackled by engineers. They are being photographed and collected like snapshots until their characteristics, causes and effects are becoming thoroughly understood.

Youthful Gangster Is Shot To Death In Philadelphia

(International News Service) PHILADELPHIA, May 16.—Gangsters' pistols barked again here early today and Joseph P. White, 25-year-old small-time racketeer from Pemberton, N. J., was riddled with dum-dum bullets by two rival gangsters. He died from his wounds in the Hahnemann hospital where he was rushed by a passing taxicab driver.

Three theories were advanced by police for the slaying. One opinion held by the bluecoats was that a quarrel over a woman caused the slaying. A second blamed the killing on a war between Philadelphia rum runners and White over New Jersey territory, while other police officials believe that the shooting was the culmination of a series of gang shootings that have taken place in New Jersey. White himself was wounded last August in one of the Jersey affairs. Newspaper clippings in his pockets also gave an account of the slaying of "Big Bill" Weirman in a roadhouse at Bellmawr, N. J., during a holdup a few weeks ago.

Dr. Mildred Rogers Heads Convention

(International News Service) LANCASTER, Pa., May 16.—Mayor T. Warren Metzger was to deliver the address of welcome which will mark the official opening here today of the state convention of Business and Professional Women's clubs.

The annual meeting of the executive board of the state organization preceded the formal opening of the convention with an executive session held here last night and presided over by Dr. Mildred Rogers of New Castle state president.

Two hundred delegates were expected to attend the three-day convention.

RIGHT KIND OF HEAT AIDS WINTER HEALTH

Warm Air, Choice of Many Authorities, at Its Best When Furnished By Torrid Zone Furnace

Warm air heating has long been the choice of foremost health authorities. It is the only system which sets up a constant circulation of air, thus obtaining proper ventilation even when all windows are closed. At regular intervals the stale air in the room is replaced by fresh, healthful air properly moistened by the water pan in the furnace.

The Torrid Zone is steel boiler plate, riveted and cold-calked at the seams. There's no cement to loosen and fall out—so no gas or dust ever escapes up the warm air pipes into the rooms of your home. Another important point: The humidifier has twice the evaporating area of ordinary water pans right inside the casing and it is located over the firing doors for most effective evaporation.

Be sure to see the many features of the Torrid Zone. Models for all purposes—burning hard coal, soft coal, coke, lignite, wood, gas or oil. Made by the Lennox Furnace Company, Syracuse, N. Y.—Marshalltown, Iowa—Toronto, Canada.

HIGHLIGHTS OF HISTORY

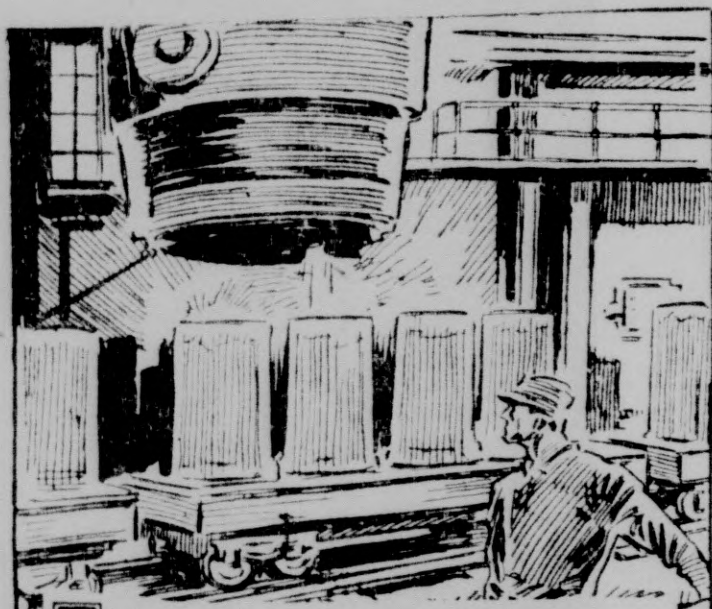

By J. Carroll Mansfield

The Story Of American Industry
Iron And Steel—(Part Five)

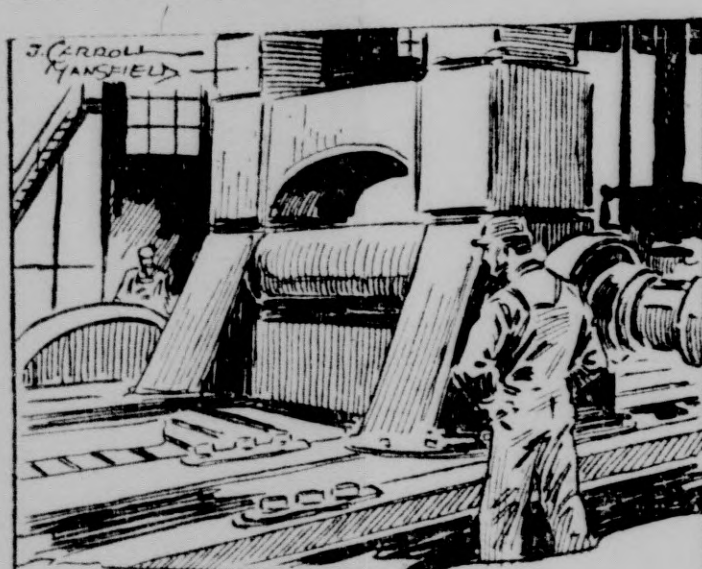

BEFORE 1850 THE PROCESS OF MANUFACTURING STEEL WAS SLOW AND EXPENSIVE. THEN AN ENGLISHMAN, SIR HENRY BESSEMER, FOUND A WAY TO MAKE STEEL QUICKLY AND CHEAPLY. BY HIS METHOD A PROLONGED BLAST OF HOT AIR WAS BLOWN THROUGH A "CONVERTER" FILLED WITH MOLTEN PIG IRON, REMOVING THE CARBON FROM THE METAL. WHEN A CERTAIN AMOUNT OF CARBON WAS PUT BACK INTO THE CONVERTER, THE IRON BECAME STEEL.

THE BESSEMER PROCESS WAS INTRODUCED INTO AMERICA AND FOR MANY YEARS WAS THE MOST WIDELY USED METHOD OF MAKING STEEL. LATER, THE NEED FOR MAKING LARGER QUANTITIES OF STEEL AT ONE TIME AND KEEPING THE QUALITY ALWAYS THE SAME LED TO THE DEVELOPMENT AND ADOPTION OF THE "OPEN HEARTH" PROCESS.

SCRAP STEEL AND PIG IRON TOGETHER WITH LIMESTONE AND COKE GO INTO THE OPEN-HEARTH FURNACE. WHEN THE PURIFYING PROCESS IS FINISHED, THE MOLTEN STEEL IS POURED INTO HUGE TRAVELING BUCKETS AND FROM THE BUCKETS INTO MOLDS, WHERE THE LIQUID METAL HARDENS INTO INGOTS.

TAKEN FROM THE MOLDS, THE INGOTS GO TO THE ROLLING MILL, WHERE THEY ARE TRANSFORMED INTO RAILS AND VARIOUS STRUCTURAL SHAPES. THE GLOWING STEEL IS ROLLED, HAMMERED AND SHAPED BY GIGANTIC MACHINES, BESIDE WHICH MEN SEEM LIKE PYGMIES.

TOMORROW—IRON AND STEEL (CONCLUDED).

Americans Look Like Winners At Sandwich England

Bobby Jones And American Walker Cup Stars Just About Cinch Singles Title

AMERICANS WILL RETAIN TROPHY

By HARRY R. FLOREY
International News Service Staff Correspondent
SANDWICH, Eng., May 16.—Following its usual course of procedure, the American Eagle got what amounted to a strangle hold on the coveted Walker cup today, with the scores at the end of the first eighteen holes making it a virtual certainty the American team would win the four singles matches needed to clinch the trophy for the sixth year in succession.

Britain's gallant bid to lift the cup for the first time faded away when four of the invaders finished the first round with scores that made their victories as sure as anything in golf can be. By virtue of the three triumphs in yesterday's foursomes, America needs but these three victories to retain the cup for another year.

At the end of the first round, Bobby Jones, Harrison Johnston, George Voigt and Roland Mackenzie were leading their opponents in thoroughgoing fashion. While the Britishers had the advantage in three matches, while the last was all square, it appeared nothing could stop the Americans and his followers from finishing the job this afternoon.

Bobby Jones Leads.
Bobby Jones led the onslaught against the sons of Britannia by finishing 7 up on Rogers Wethered, captain of the British team. Although Bobby and Roger finished all square at the ninth, Jones reached the peak of his form on the home coming round and put the Britisher to flight with a brilliant 34, two under par.

Roland Mackenzie was even better off, for he finished 3 up on William Campbell. George Voigt had an advantage of five over Sir Ernest Holderness. While Harrison Johnston, National amateur champion, was three up on Cyril Tolley.

The all square match was that of George Von Elm and Rex Hartley, who fought bitterly and without quarrel throughout.
Of Britain's victories, only two looked like certain wins. T. A. Torrance had Francis Oumet with his back to the wall with an advantage of five. A. J. Stout was four up on Don K. Moe, while John Nelson Smith 1 up on Dr. O. F. Willing of Portland, Ore.

The Hartley-Von Elm affair was anybody's match, and there was no guarantee Dr. Willing was not going to pull away to victory this afternoon. Thus while America had four matches it could depend on, the British were certain of only two.

A huge gallery had turned out in the brilliant sunshine to watch the second and last day of the tournament. Interest naturally attached to the Jones-Wethered match, and when the word went round the two captives had finished all square at the ninth, everyone gathered to watch the two titans battle it out.

Not that there was much of a battle from the ninth, but there were plenty of fireworks. Jones' 20-yard chip shot on the thirteenth gave him a birdie three that will live long in memory, while on the 520-yard fourteenth he landed on the green with his brassie after a magnificent tee-shot.

The anti-climax came when Bobby three-putted to halve the hole in 5's. On his second nine, Jones won five holes in succession, and halved only the fourteenth, sixteenth and eighteenth.

Voigt and Mackenzie more or less had walked away from the start, while Torrance had the easiest time of the Britishers.

Officials of the organization pointed out that St. Louis had an excellent chance of being the chosen city. The convention if held here, it was said, would bring about 25,000 road builders' delegates to the city.

SALLY'S SALLIES

The secret of a good vacation is change, and plenty of it.

LESSON THIRTEEN

The jackknife dive will follow the plain front dive. Get a good spring and a good lift from the board, going almost straight up, touch your hands to the toes, then straighten out with a snap so that you are in position for your entry into the water. It is best to at first touch only your knees, otherwise you will turn completely over.

This must be practiced until it is automatic, going straight up touching your toes and straightening out. When you get more spring than you need and straighten out before the full height is reached an overthrow results.

As in other dives you must watch your form and see that your toes are pointed, legs straight and together, your hands locked overhead and your back arched as you enter the water so that you strike the water as smoothly as a lance hurled point first.

Next: Back Jackknife Dive.

Man Held By Police

For Wounding Youth

(International News Service)

CARLISLE, Pa., May 16.—H. O. Breach, of New Market, near here, was held in 1,000 bail today, charged with felonious assault in connection with the wounding of Elmer Prowell, 14, of Lemoyne.

Prowell was struck in the face and about the legs by part of the discharge of a shot gun. His condition is not serious and after treatment at the Harrisburg hospital last night was expected to be released today.

Breach is alleged to have fired his shotgun last night in response to taunting from a group of boys as he drove past them in his horse and wagon. He fired over their heads and did not mean to hit any of them, he said.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., May 16.—St. Louisans now can talk over the telephone to Buenos Aires. The line was recently inaugurated here. The charge is $42. Calls may be made between the hours of 8 a. m. and 4 p. m.

NEW YORK STOCKS

Price Recovery Is Feature Of Market

(International News Service) NEW YORK, May 16.—Good recoveries were made in the first period today in a dozen or more of the active stocks which were under fire at the close of Thursday's market, but the 1 to 6 point rallies restored only a small part of yesterday's losses. The market as a whole made no response to the $67,000,000 decrease in brokers' loans announced last night.

Official confirmation was given of the rumored plan to acquire 25 per cent of the stock of Columbia Gas and Electric by exchange of United Corporation's common and preferred stock, the first effect of which was to cause heavy selling of United, a point below yesterday's close. Columbia Gas advanced a point to 86 1/2.

The downward move was resumed in a number of the high-priced specialties in the second hour. National Supply dropped off 11 points to 101. Auburn Auto fell from its opening price of 170 to 163. Warner Brothers Pictures was under pressure and sold off about 2 points. Persistent selling blocked the upward move of the amusement, Radio, Copper and other important groups, but the market displayed no particular weakness, and a firm tone was in evidence in the utility stocks.
